HAD NO AUTHORITY

CAUCUS WAS IRREGULAR, SAYS M. D. VINCENT.

OPPOSES METHODS EMPLOYED

SAYS SENATORSHIP HAS BEEN PRACTICALLY SOLD.

REPRESENTATIVE LEFT HALL

Vote on Senatorship Stands 68 to 1, Senator Alexander Failing to Indorse Guggenheim — Is Placed Before Caucus by Major Bohn.

DENVER, Dec. 31.—Simon Guggenheim's election as United States senator to succeed Thomas M. Patterson is assured by the action of the Republican members of the general assembly in caucus this afternoon. Mr. Guggenheim's candidacy was indorsed by a vote of 68 to 1. Seventy of the one hundred members of the legislature are Republicans, and all but one, M. D. Vincent, of Delta county, participated in the caucus. The one vote against Mr. Guggenheim was cast by Senator Morton Alexander, of Golden.

A sensation was sprung by M. D. Vincent, Delta county's representative, who left the caucus, protesting that it was irregular, and that it was without authority to act, in as much as the assembly had not been regularly called to order. He also denounced the methods of the Guggenheim managers declaring that the senatorship had been practically sold.

Mr. Guggenheim is 39 years of age and is a son of the late Meyer Guggenheim of New York. He is a very wealthy man and is a member of the executive committee of the American Smelting and Refining company. In an interview today Mr. Guggenheim said:

To Serve Country.

"If I go to the senate it will not be to represent the smelting company or any other company, or any interest. I will go as Simon Guggenheim, a plain citizen to represent the people of Colorado. An honorable ambition is permitted to every man, and to the wealthy and it is my ambition to serve my country.

"When I was a younger man I had the ambition to make myself independent. [illegible] ... independence that I might go into public life with free hands. Why shouldn't [illegible] indulge his aim, serve his country, with all his wealth and his heart as [illegible]"

Wilbur F. Cannon called the Republican caucus to order and spoke briefly of the great Republican victory and the necessity for the united action of members of the assembly in order that they might fulfill the promises which they had made to the people.

Nominated by Major Bohn.

Senator John B. Stephen, of El Paso, was elected chairman. He presented Major J. N. Bohn, a Leadville pioneer, whom had been delegated the duty of nominating Simon Guggenheim for United States senate. Major Bohn's nominating speech was highly commended and was received with much applause by the members of the caucus, who numbered about 61. Major Bohn said:

"It would be a cold heart indeed that would fail to respond to such a [illegible] greeting. I will not assume, however, that it is entirely personal, but because of the purpose which you probably anticipate I have claimed the privilege of the floor.

"I desire to congratulate this body on its splendid representative capacity. Many and important are the duties to be performed, but the most important of the matters which will come before you is the election of a man who will for the next six years occupy a chair in the United States senate and who will stand before the nation as the senator from Colorado. This is the most important trust you have to fulfill.

Duty of Senator.

"Our senator should stand for every principle of your party; he should symbolize in his character its grand purposes; his honesty should be unquestioned; he should stand for the party and its enforcement; he should never lose sight of the dignity of the office and its highest ideals.

"The man who possesses all these characteristics in full rounded measure, is Simon Guggenheim, and I [illegible] from the bottom of my soul in presenting to you the name of Simon Guggenheim. I do so with a full consciousness of the responsibilities which are incumbent on the occupant of this office.

"You may ask how [illegible] I answer, from the fighting working rank and file of the army of business and commercial world.

"Over twenty years ago there came to Leadville the Guggenheims, and I learned to know them all. They were busy; they were of the kind that does things. Simon brought to assistance in all the duties [illegible] on him a heart, beating with sympathetic loyalty to our party, experience in the business world, a trained mind, diplomacy in method and strength in execution.

"If elected to this high office, as he certainly will be, he will fulfill its duties with both dignity and ability and set an example worthy of emulation.

"Right here, I feel prompted to remark that he is not one to bring shame upon the people of this great commonwealth. He possesses to a large degree the qualities of unwavering friendship, and his staunchest friends are those who have known him best and best. You will find him supporting our president in all that is right and just and he will be for Colorado and all her interests and industries.

"And so I nominate Simon Guggenheim for United States senator and ask you to rally around his standard and move on to even greater triumph than we have yet achieved."

The selection proceeded with unanimity, save for the defection of Representative M. D. Vincent and Morton Alexander. Vincent would not be bound by the caucus and did not vote. Alexander cast the solitary vote against Guggenheim.

Two committees, one from the senate and the other from the house, were appointed to make nominations for the offices of the two branches of the legislature and will report tomorrow.

The thirty Democratic members of the legislature met in caucus, Senator Taylor of Glenwood Springs presiding. The question of nominating a candidate for the senate was discussed, but received little support.

SCHUYLER HEARD FROM

MUCH-TALKED-OF LETTER TO COUNCIL ARRIVES.

Was Stamped in Denver Postoffice December 29, 9:30 p. m.—Reached City Clerk on Sunday.

The letter written by R. C. Schuyler, attorney for the Pike's Peak Hydro-Electric company, and addressed to the mayor and city council, which was claimed to have been sent on December 17, 1906, was received by mail Sunday and read to the city council during its meeting last night.

The letter, which was dated in Denver, December 17, 1906, was stamped in the Denver postoffice, December 29, at 9:30 p. m. On the reverse side, the envelope bears the date of the local postoffice, December 30, at 12:30 p. m. The letter inside bears the notation, "Received by the city clerk, December 30; by the mayor, December 31."

The communication in question treats of the present friction between the city and the Hydro company regarding the adjustment of the city's claim of over $[illegible] for alleged overcharges for street arc lights. Attorney Schuyler, in his letter, lays the blame for the delay on City Attorney W. C. Robinson. He was quoted in a local afternoon paper last Saturday as saying that he sent the letter in question to the mayor and city council on December 17. A copy of the communication was published in full in connection with the statement from Schuyler, in the afternoon paper on that afternoon, two days before the original was received by the mayor, and one day before the letter reached Colorado Springs.

The communication was referred to Aldermen Hosman, Atkin and [illegible], who comprise the committee appointed several weeks ago to take up the Hydro matter. On being asked for a report of the progress of the committee, Hosman last night said that there was nothing to report. He reviewed the various delays and hitches in the proceedings and told of the efforts of the committee to bring matters to a climax.

BALL GRAND SUCCESS

ANTLERS HOTEL A SCENE OF GAIETY AND SPLENDOR.

Cause of Sweet Charity in Colorado Springs Furthered by Efforts of Day Nursery Association.

Beautiful costumes, elaborate decorations and excellent music characterized the charity ball held at the Antlers hotel last night under the auspices of the Colorado Springs Day Nursery association. The affair may aptly be designated as the most enjoyable and brilliant social function of a semipublic nature that has been held in this city for some time and the arrangements were so perfectly planned that everyone present enjoyed the evening to the utmost.

Fully 150 couples attended and as a result the funds of a most worthy institution have been materially augmented. The spirit of the glad new year season seemed to pervade each individual of the brilliant assemblage of dancers.

The music was by Rinnes' orchestra, which rendered a most pleasing program of waltzes, two steps and other dances, and several of the numbers received enthusiastic encores. The spacious floor of the Antlers hotel ballroom was in excellent condition and, at every number, while not too crowded for absolute pleasure, was sufficiently well filled to make a pleasing spectacle.

While youth and beauty predominated, there was a sufficient number of older persons present to add dignity to the brilliant whirl of dancers. Tasty decorations, with flowers in profusion, artistically mingled with a dash of [illegible] and [illegible] lent an added charm to the scene. This feature of the affair was due to the ingenuity displayed by Miss Margaret Anderson, who had charge of the decorations.

With the advent of the new year heralded in by the merry din of a thousand whistles over the city, came supper, which was served a la carte by the management of the hotel, after which dancing was resumed and continued until an early hour this morning.

Seldom if ever has a more thoroughly pleased assembly of dancers been seen in this city than those present at the function last night, and many were the hearty expressions of congratulation accorded to the officers of the association and the members of the various committees. Hopes that the management will see fit to make the charity ball an annual function were freely expressed and the success of the attendance [illegible]

FRANCE'S FUTURE

IMPORTANT DEVELOPMENTS IN PRESENT STRUGGLE.

FORECASTS OF PRESENT YEAR

END OF CLERICALISM IS NOW ACCOMPLISHED FACT.

WAR AGAINST CAPITALISTS

Extreme Socialists Are Anxious to Bring About Conflict—Many of the Old Ideas Abandoned by Premier—To Abolish Death Penalty.

PARIS, Dec. 31.—The writers who review the events of the year and indulge in forecasts of the future unite in the anticipation that in 1907 France will witness the most important developments in the continuation of the struggle which the French democracy is waging against the old regime. The end of clericalism, with the separation of church and state is an accomplished fact, and no longer an issue, although echoes of this conflict probably will be heard for a long time to come, and the extreme socialists are anxious to press the war against capitalism.

Draws Sharp Line.

The Clemenceau cabinet draws a sharp line at what is attainable. Premier Clemenceau has abandoned many of the old ideas for the regeneration of the state upon socialistic bases, which he formerly entertained and now stands firmly for individualism tempered by every measure possible for the amelioration of the condition of the working man.

The cabinet today stands committed to supplement the weekly rest day law and the employers liability act, passed in 1906, with an eight hour law, old age pensions, the gradual purchase of railroads by the state and the transfer of the heaviest burdens of taxation upon the rich by the imposition of income taxes, and as a result even government bonds, in which French savings are largely invested, are threatened.

Money Coming to America.

The proposal to shift taxation to the shoulders of the wealthier classes coupled with a great increase in taxation, necessary to meet the cost of new legislation in the interests of the working classes, such as old age pensions, has created some nervousness and in spite of the fact that the French financial situation is exceptionally strong, the Bank of France is bursting with gold and that all industries are active, and there is a steady migration of capital seeking foreign investment. There is considerable money going quietly into American and other foreign securities, and many French families are systematically getting rid of their French realty holdings and investing in income properties in Switzerland and Belgium.

Abolition of Death Penalty.

The abolition of the death penalty, already an accomplished fact in practice, undoubtedly will be enacted into law during the coming year.

The foreign position of France is regarded as having been greatly strengthened by the events of the last year.

The only cloud upon the horizon is a possible unfavorable development in Morocco which may draw France into an extended campaign in Africa.

BESTS TWO MASKED ROBBERS

Night Agent of Burlington at New York, Is Hero.

YORK, Neb., Dec. 31.—[illegible] Morris, night agent for the Burlington, grappled with two masked robbers and beat them off at an early hour this morning. One stood guard over him while the other rifled the cash drawer. Grabbing a fire shovel, Morris struck his guard a stunning blow. [illegible] grappled with the robber at the drawer, who had his hands full of money.

They fought their way to the platform and were engaged in a terrific struggle when the other robber recovered. He came to the platform, called to his companion, and they ran off in the darkness. As they fled they fired two shots at the agent, but he was not injured. The robber at the drawer secured a few dollars and left much more upon the floor, where it was struck from his hands by the agent. The robbers escaped. One is injured, for he left a pool of blood where he dropped to the floor.

BOLD BURGLAR CAUGHT

STOLE PLUMBING FROM MANY VACANT HOUSES.

Confesses to Theft of Brass Faucets and Lead Pipe—Did Fully $1,000 Damage to Property.

Arrested yesterday afternoon while carrying a large assortment of brass faucets and lead pipe which he had stolen from vacant houses in this city, J. E. Collins of Dubuque, Ia., is in the city jail awaiting trial on a charge of grand larceny and burglary.

The arrest of Collins, which was effected by Detective J. W. Rowan, came as the result of a series of thefts of brass faucets and lead pipe from more than a dozen vacant houses principally in the south and west sides of the city. The amount of damage to property by the removal of the plumbing is estimated at more than $1,000.

When arrested at the corner of Huerfano and Conejos streets Collins had on his person 22 faucets, and several pounds of lead pipe which he was carrying to a junk shop to sell. He had previously disposed of about $15 worth of stolen faucets and the police have recovered about 200 pounds of the same material that had been hidden by Collins in the weeds on the bottoms south of the D. & R. G. railway tracks.

Collins confessed to the thefts and informed Detective Rowan of several other houses besides the ones reported to the police where he had been operating. He had with him a bunch of skeleton keys, and wore a cravanette overcoat, an undercoat, a vest and a pair of kid gloves, all of which he had taken from an empty house on West Kiowa street, where he said there was a trunk and a great quantity of clothes lying about. He will go with the detective today and locate the houses which he has despoiled.

Collins stated to the police that he wanted the money to assist him in getting out of town as he was "broke." He gave his home as Dubuque, Ia., and said that he was married but had separated from his wife. He is 41 years of age, a painter by trade and came to Colorado Springs from Denver five days ago having been in Denver about two months. He had $1 on his person and had disposed of the goods which he carried, he intended to leave town last night and go to Pueblo. He started his operations immediately after coming to this city but so carefully did he cover his tracks that it was not until yesterday that Detective Rowan succeeded in hunting him down, though the first report of the burglaries was made to the police on December 26.

Following are the vacant houses that Detective Rowan knows have been robbed by the alleged burglar: 820 East Cucharas, 1705 Colorado avenue, 1702 Washington avenue, 814 South Cascade, 630 West Kiowa and another house on West Kiowa the number of which is not known. Collins confessed to robbing several other houses and offered to take the police around and locate them today.

DARING ROBBERY IN TONOPAH

TONOPAH, Nev., Dec. 31.—A daring robbery of the jewelry store of George E. Blakesley, occurred tonight when the store was still open. The robbers put a broomstick through the outer handle of the door so it could not be opened from the inside. With a hammer wrapped in paper he broke the plate glass and took a tray containing diamonds worth $20,000, jumped a fence and disappeared in the rear of the next building.

PALS OF LEIBERG

FRISBIE'S MURDERERS WERE HIS FRIENDS.

THREE THUGS WERE TOGETHER

SAME PARTY ROBBED D. & R. G. TRAIN RECENTLY.

MEN WORKED IN LEADVILLE

Disappear on Night of Depot Hold-up, Leaving Nearly a Month's Pay—Narrowly Escape Arrest—Deputy Sheriff Is Sent to Scene.

LEADVILLE, Dec. 31.—That the two men who killed Marshal Frisbie at Lamar, one of whom is believed to be in custody at Eagle, are the same who robbed the Denver & Rio Grande train at Leadville Junction and later held up the depot here, shooting Night Ticket Agent Dale, and that the pair were pals of Laurence Leiberg, who was lynched at Las Animas for the murder of Henry Lanvermeyer, is the startling statement made by officers here today.

So confident are the local authorities that with the capture of the Lamar murderers the men long sought by them will also be in custody that a deputy sheriff from here has been sent to the scene. This officer knows the men and the identification will be positive.

The Leadville suspects are Andrew Johnson, a Swede, and supposed to be the "short man," and Frank Collins, the "long man." They disappeared on the night of the depot holdup, leaving nearly a month's pay, and have not since been seen. The circumstances in every way bear out the theory of the officers, even to the fact that after the shooting of Dale the assailants left the city to the east.

Companions of Leiberg.

That the two men were companions of Leiberg, the youthful victim of mob law at Las Animas, is borne out by the statements of trainmen who put the trio off the train at Robinson. The descriptions secured by the Leadville authorities, those of the trainmen and the Lamar officers, tally almost to the minutest detail. Another fact that serves to strengthen the theory is that Johnson is a Swede, the same nationality as Leiberg.

The Leadville [illegible] forces have traced the actions of the men since their arrival in the camp, and if their convictions do not prove true they will be greatly disappointed.

Johnson and Collins worked at the livery stable of Martin & Flannigan here for two months. Their very manner, according to the employers, made it evident that they were more than are ordinary horseshoer. They associated with no one and talked but little. On several occasions they were seen to secretly converse with each other.

When questioned as to their home the men said they had traveled all over the globe and that one place was as much home to them as another. They, however, admitted they had more recently been in Utah, having gone to that place from Nevada. According to fellow-workmen, they were on several occasions heard to make remarks about the "crazy Swede," and it is now believed were referring to Leiberg.

Just Avoided Arrest.

Collins was the first to start to work at the livery stable. He was employed the first of October, about the same time that Leiberg said he arrived in Leadville. Johnson went to work for the local sewer company on the streets. On the morning of October 17, which was the day following the robbery of the Denver & Rio Grande train, Johnson applied for work at the stable and was hired.

Although both men seemed nervous at the time it was not suspected by the owners of the barn or other employes that they could have been the bandits. However, clews which the local officers have been following since that time, it is said proves beyond a doubt that Collins, who slept at the livery stable, was absent about the time of the holdup and came quietly into the barn at an early hour in the morning.

It is said that the sheriff's office was about to arrest them for investigation in connection with the train robbery when the depot holdup and wounding of Dale occurred and it developed that the men had skipped town.

Descriptions Tally.

The description given by Dale of his assailant tallies exactly with that of the man who shot Marshal Frisbie and also corresponds with the description furnished the police by the crew of Rio Grande train No. 5, which was held up near Leadville junction.

RETURN FROM SHORT OUTING

President Roosevelt and Party Again in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—President and Mrs. Roosevelt and party returned here at 9 o'clock after their short sojourn at Pine Knot, Mrs. Roosevelt's country place. One of the president's aides met him at the station. Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt and the children entered their carriages and were driven immediately to the White house.

ENTIRELY OUT OF DEBT

Y. M. C. A. ENTERS UPON NEW YEAR WITHOUT BURDEN.

Last Instalment of Bonded Indebtedness Paid Off—$11,000 in Subscriptions Yet to Come In.

Starting the new year entirely free of debt is the excellent condition of the Young Men's Christian association of Colorado Springs which yesterday paid off the last installment of $[illegible] on its bonded indebtedness. A floating indebtedness of about $6,000 was also wiped out within the last few days so that outside of the current bills there is not a cent outstanding against the institution.

What adds luster to the splendid financial achievements of the association is the fact that there is still about $11,000 of the funds subscribed during the campaign last May to be collected between now and March 1, and it is the intention to apply all this amount to improvements within the next twelve months. Possibly never in the history of the organization has any city responded more liberally to a call for aid than Colorado Springs did in the campaign instituted last May by the officers of the local organization. In the brief space of seventeen days over $53,000 was subscribed largely by the residents of this city, and of this sum about $42,000 has already been paid in. The date of the last payment is March 1, and to judge from the promptness with which subscriptions have been paid up so far, it is reasonable to expect that every cent will be in the hands of the secretary by that date.

In 1901 bonds to the extent of $30,000 were issued for the completion of the Y. M. C. A. building. There were sixty bonds of $500 each, bearing interest at 6 per cent, and the burden was felt to be a serious drawback to the institution. This led to the campaign being started and carried to a triumphant conclusion.

The association has now the satisfaction of knowing that it is in possession of a building and site worth more than $100,000, free from all financial obligations, so that the new year may be well regarded as marking an epoch in the history of the institution.

CHARITY WORK BEGINS

NEW ASSOCIATED CHARITIES OPENS HEADQUARTERS.

Organization Enters Upon New Era of Progress—Citizens Are Asked to Co-operate.

Since the reorganization of the Associated Charities and the election of new officers within the last month, the association has entered upon a new era of progress and is beginning the year with every prospect of more activity and greater success than ever before.

The organization is now installed in its new quarters, rooms 213 and 214 Hagerman building, and is prepared to investigate all cases of need brought to its attention. The agent's office hours are from 9 a. m. to 12 m.

The citizens of Colorado Springs are requested to bring to the notice of the association cases requiring its attention, and the assurance is given that prompt service will be rendered.

The agent of the Associated Charities will gladly assist or act for those who, while desirous of giving aid in particular cases, may not have the time or opportunity to devote special attention to the matter.

The recently-elected board of directors and officers of the Associated Charities earnestly desire the interest and support of every member of the community.

FAMINE IN CHINA APPALLING

Four Million People Are Starving. Authorities Unable to Cope With Situation.

PEKIN, Dec. 31.—Owing to excessive rains and consequent failure of the crops, the famine in the north of Kiang Su is worse than at any time during the last 40 years. It is estimated that four million persons are starving. Tens of thousands are utterly destitute and wandering over the country. The danger is increased by the activity of the secret societies as the wanderers are gladly joining them in order to obtain rice. About 50,000 refugees have reached the vicinity of Nanking in a pitiable condition. The authorities are unable to cope with the situation.

BE OF GOOD CHEER

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM, SAYS SECRETARY SHAW.

GIVES RESUME OF THE YEAR

BE CONSERVATIVE IN EVERYTHING EXCEPT THANKS.

RECEIPTS MUCH INCREASED

Only Anxiety Need Be Lest We Fail in Facilities for Transport and Marketing of Our Multiplied Blessings—Splendid Record.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—"There is no occasion for alarm. Our only anxiety need be lest we fail in facilities properly to garner, store, transport and market our multiplied blessings. Let every man be of good cheer, and try to be conservative in everything except thankfulness."

Secretary Shaw thus concludes a resume of the year's financial record which he says has been prepared in response to multiplied requests.

Increase in Receipts.

In round numbers he places the receipts for the calendar year 1906 at $625,000,000 and the expenditures at $569,000,000 or an excess of receipts over expenditures of $53,000,000. As there has been no change in the tariff laws or the laws regulating internal revenue, Secretary Shaw says the large increase in receipts is due solely to the extraordinary prosperity. The total expenditures, however, for 1906, as compared with 1905, shows a decrease of only $5,000,000.

Discussing the finances of the government for the six months of the present fiscal year just closed, the secretary says the books of the treasury show surplus receipts over expenditures of $25,000,000 as compared with a deficit of $8,000,000 for the corresponding months of the previous fiscal year. The cash in the treasury is $190,000,000 as compared with $171,000,000 a year ago, an increase of $19,000,000. The cash in national bank depositaries is $159,000,000, as compared with $95,000,000 a year ago, an increase of $64,000,000 and the total cash in the general fund is $[illegible] a year ago. Against this are there are liabilities at the present time $18,000,000 greater than at the same time last year. The available cash balance has increased during the year $101,000,000, with the general fund standing at $[illegible]. Secretary Shaw remarks that the bonds maturing July 1, 1907, can be paid, if it shall be deemed wise, and still leave a working balance of more than $120,000,000.

Money in Circulation.

During the last year, the money in actual circulation, exclusive of the amount in the treasury vaults, has increased more than $200,000,000. As to the currency reform suggested Secretary Shaw says that in his judgment it permits adequate expansion, but that its weakness is its failure to produce contraction. The volume of money, he contends, does not respond to the volume of our business. The annual increase, he adds may be sufficient, but there is no annual contraction during the dull summer months. Last year speculation in real estate was at high tide and the opinion expressed that very likely as much money is tied up in options and margins in real estate as in options and margins in stocks and bonds.

"Get Rich Quick" Habit.

"It is idle to complain of the inevitable. The spirit of speculation is among us and like the drink habit, those most addicted are frequently the loudest in denunciation. It ill becomes the real estate speculator to decry every other manifestation of desire to get rich quick."

The effect of the present car shortage on the money market is also alluded to. In conclusion Secretary Shaw says:

"It is urged against the present policy that it places too much power and authority in one man. It does not place power or authority with one man. The responsibility rests with an administration. A financial panic ruins any administration. For years, the name of a very worthy president, a man with high ideals and lofty patriotism, was well nigh a reproach because his administration was accompanied with widespread financial disaster. If an administration is to be held responsible for the financial health of the people, the medicine chest and the surgeon's kit should be sunk in the sea.

"All authority is subject to abuse. No voice was raised against the rate bill because it permits one man, through an interstate commerce commission, to fix arbitrarily, if he pleases, subject to as yet undetermined jurisdiction by the courts, the freight rate of every product of 80,000,000 people. It is presumed that a president is responsible to himself as well as the party that has made him. Admittedly, our present monetary system is defective, but the assumption that one can be substituted that will be perfect, is somewhat violent."

TELLER DIVORCE MILL BUSY.

Sixty-five Couples Separated During Year—Marriages Number 167.

Special to the Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Dec. 31.—The total number of marriage licenses issued by the county clerk and recorder, during 1906, amounts to 167, as against 187 in 1905. Watch for the Gazette's big Annual Edition

ARE you to be represented in The Gazette's big Annual Edition? If not, you ought to be. There is time yet if you hurry, for the monster paper will not be issued until sometime between the fifteenth and the last of January.

The Gazette Annual will be the only paper in Colorado devoted to the mining and agricultural interests of the state. Every nook and corner of the great commonwealth will be represented. In order that this may be accomplished with credit to The Gazette and the state as a whole, and that complete statistics for the year just closed may be published, it has been necessary to postpone publication until all of the desired data can be obtained. This is now being done as rapidly as possible by The Gazette's special staff of writers who are going about the state for this purpose.

Put in your order now for the papers you will want to file away and send to your friends. If you wait you may be too late, for they will go like hot cakes.

DEATH LIST GROWING

FATALITIES IN B. & O. WRECK WILL REACH 60.

Heart-Rending Scenes at Morgue, Where Dead Are Identified by Relatives of Victims.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—The Baltimore and Ohio wreck at Terra Cotta last night grows in magnitude as the hours pass. The most conservative estimate of the dead tonight is 53, with three score of injured in the hospitals or at their homes suffering from wounds and fractures sustained in the rear end collision which completely demolished the two day coaches and the smoker attached to the local Frederick express, No. 66. Several of the most seriously injured are expected to die during the night, and the death list may reach sixty or more.

Heart-rending and pitiful were the scenes at the city morgue today, where hundreds of persons have flocked to assist the police in the identification of the dead. Women, girls and even men with iron nerves shrieked, sobbed and fainted as their dead relatives or friends were found among the corpses strewn about the floor. Coffins, wicker baskets and winding sheets were found on all sides.

Officials of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad are conducting an investigation of the wreck in Baltimore for the purpose of placing the responsibility for the terrible disaster. General Superintendent Todd exonerated Milton Phillips, the telegraph operator at the Takoma block station, the last signal station that the equipment train passed before crashing into the passenger train at Terra Cotta. The superintendent declared that Phillips was obeying instructions when he went home at 6:30 o'clock, leaving the double green signal burning. While making no positive charge, Superintendent Todd intimated that the entire blame would be placed upon the engineer and crew of the extra. The five members of the crew, who were arrested after the accident, are now being held to await the result of the official investigation.

Gazing vacantly between the iron bars of his cell at the police station, Engineer Hildebrand is too full of emotion to make any definite statement. "It will all come out at the investigation," he said. "I don't believe there is anything for me to say and I could not say it if there was."

Before he was arrested the engineer made a statement to the Associated Press in which he declared that if the danger signal was displayed at Takoma he failed to see it on account of the dense fog.

Milton W. Phillips, the operator, who is also held a prisoner, said today that the equipment train ran past his danger signal at a speed of from 50 to 60 miles an hour. He says there was heavy fog but not enough to hide a red light. He declared that he immediately notified the operator at University station that the train had taken the block against orders. His statement is corroborated by the University station operator, who says that he received the message.

Superintendent Galloway of the Baltimore and Ohio exonerated the company from all blame and put the responsibility upon the engineer of the equipment train, or the operator at Takoma. "If the coroner's jury fails to hold the engineer or block operator," he said, "we shall not consider the matter settled. We shall go to the bottom of the wreck. This horrible accident should have been avoided. Some one is responsible and we intend to leave no stone unturned until the responsibility has been fixed."

As a manifestation of sorrow and sympathy for all afflicted by the Sunday night disaster at Terra Cotta, the district commissioners today ordered that flags on all public buildings in the district be displayed at half mast until after the funerals of the victims. The Washington stock exchange, in view of the terrible calamity and as a mark of respect, held no session.

BIG NEW YEARS GIFT

ROCKEFELLER GIVES $3,000,000 TO EDUCATION.

Chicago University Handsomely Remembered by Oil King—Brings Total Up to $19,416,922.

CHICAGO, Dec. 31.—As New Years gift of nearly $3,000,000 was presented by John D. Rockefeller to the University of Chicago today. This is the largest contribution of Mr. Rockefeller to the institution and brings his total benefactions to the university to $19,416,922.

Announcement of the latest donation was contained in a letter from John D. Rockefeller, jr., to acting President Harry Pratt Judson. The major portion of the New Years gift is to go to the permanent endowment fund of the university and for this purpose securities with a market value of $2,700,000 are provided. The remainder of the gift, $217,000, is to make up the yearly deficit, to provide for an increase in the salaries of instructors and to allow appropriations for various purposes.

WINCHESTER SUIT DISMISSED

Plaintiff Fails to Prove Cause of Action in Conspiracy Case—Suit Was for $200,000.

DENVER, Dec. 31.—The damage suit of Josiah Winchester, a mining man against A. M. Stevenson, A. E. Carlton, J. J. Welcher and Herbert Wayne, in which charges were made that the defendants conspired to defraud the value of Winchester's holdings in the Jack Pot and other rich mines in the Cripple Creek district, was dismissed tonight by District Judge Mullins on motion of the defendants, because the plaintiff had failed to prove a cause of action.

The suit was for $200,000 and testimony was offered to show that Winchester had been systematically robbed of his share of rich ore while away in Mississippi on a trip several years ago and to cover up the steal, injunction and other legal proceedings were instituted as a part of the conspiracy alleged.

The defendants are among the most prominent men in the state, Mr. Stevenson being a leading lawyer and politician and at present Colorado's representative on the Republican national committee. Mr. Carlton is one of the wealthy bankers and mine owners of the Cripple Creek district. The other two defendants are equally prominent in mining and business circles of the state.

DEMANDS RELEASE OF SON

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Mrs. Lillian Breslin, who asserts that she is the widow of George H. Pullman, disturbed the children's court today by demanding an opportunity to speak to Judge Olmstead about the commitment of her son, Edmond, to the New York juvenile asylum on Saturday. She did not appear at the time, but today entered the court room greatly excited. Court officers quieted her, but in a few minutes she tried to open the gate leading to the bench. She was led away, but returned again and shouted, "I demand to see the judge. No commitment papers were served on me until five hours after my boy was committed."

Well-Known Policeman to Marry Chicago Girl—Other Licenses.

Charles T. Fawcett, of this city, and Miss Grace B. Shemway, of Chicago, secured a marriage license in the county clerk's office yesterday and will be married this afternoon at the residence of the bride's uncle, F. H. Springer, 202 North Walnut street.

Mr. Fawcett is a member of the local police department, and is well known in Colorado Springs. Miss Shemway is a nurse, and has a considerable reputation in her profession.

A pretty romance has led up to the approaching marriage. Fawcett was nursed by Miss Shemway while ill in a Chicago hospital, the warm friendship between the two being resumed, months afterward, by their accidental meeting in this city.

After the ceremony today, the couple will leave for Denver, where they will spend a brief honeymoon.

Other marriage licenses granted yesterday were those of Noah Warford and Etta E. Randall, both of Colorado Springs; M. P. Woods, Ordway, and Elsie Elinor Roberts, Colorado City; C. W. In the application for the last license, the prospective groom's age was given as 19 years, while Miss Bader is 24 years old. The written consent of Wells' mother accompanied the application.

At that time the British association is to meet in Winnipeg and there is a possibility that the American body will meet with it.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 1, 1907.

THE SERVICE OF SIMON.

THE seventy Republican members of the next state legislature held a caucus in Denver yesterday to go through the formality of selecting Simon Guggenheim—he of the plethoric pocketbook—as their candidate for United States Senator. The vote stood 68 to 1. M. D. Vincint, a new member from Delta County, bolted the caucus, and Senator Morton Alexander voted against the corporation candidate, being the only member with enough backbone to take this stand.

Things are coming Simon's way these days, and it must be extremely gratifying to him, after all the years of waiting and check-writing, to find his reward fairly within his grasp. He felt so good over it yesterday that he made a statement—the first utterance, by the way, that anybody has been able to get from him since the beginning of his candidacy way back in the years before he was old enough to fill the job. He told the reporters that he had long wanted to get into politics and that his object in trying to make himself independent (financially, of course; Simon is still quite dependent for his political strength on Broad, Vivian, et al.) was to enter political life and serve the people. Now that he has become "independent" by serving the Smelter Trust, he will take a whirl at the people.

Touching, isn't it? Picture it to yourself, gentle reader. Think of the noble young Simon, struggling against adversity, working, toiling, slaving night and day, disregarding the eight-hour rule, overcoming innumerable obstacles—all that he might make himself "independent" and "serve the people." Of course he became independent a good many years ago, but there was still another difficulty—the people somehow refused to express a hankering to have him serve them. But Simon was not to be rebuffed. He would serve them anyway. He would go down to Washington and fight for their rights even if he had to buy the privilege of doing it. So he entered the market for a Senatorship, and immediately the price rose. It was like pouring water into a crack, but Simon is as persistent as a flea, and finally he has filled the crack with good, hard dollars, and the Senatorship is his. He is now ready to "serve the people." They may never find it out, but he will be doing it just the same. And in the words of a one-time popular song, "He'll serve them wrong, but still it serves them right."

A PROSPEROUS YEAR.

ALL THINGS considered, the year just ended must be regarded as a satisfactory one for Colorado Springs. Business has been good. There have been one or two failures, but for every one at least a half-dozen new stores have been opened. Colorado Springs is not experiencing a "boom"—and people who have lived in "boom" towns will pray that it never will—but it is enjoying a steady, healthy growth. Its population is increasing at a satisfactory rate, as is shown by the constant demand for residences as well as by the city directory. Real estate men report an increasing demand for well-located residence property of the better class—the kind that brings from $50 to $100 a month rental—which shows that Colorado Springs is still attracting the people of means who contribute so largely to its prosperity.

There is no doubt that the holiday business of our merchants was at least as good during the season just ended as it was in 1905. Many of them perhaps did not expect it to be so, but it was, just the same, and the result is added confidence in the future.

But what is to be the future of Colorado Springs? So far as its position as a health and pleasure resort is concerned, it is assured. We have the most healthful and most enjoyable all-the-year-round climate in the United States. This in itself will attract a constant stream of visitors, many of whom will become permanent residents, just as others similarly situated have in the past. Climate and scenery will also continue to attract thousands of pleasure seekers every summer, and it is probable that their numbers will increase year by year. Colorado Springs has grown to be a city of 35,000 people and has managed to get along pretty well on these assets, but what of the future? Can it grow appreciably larger, or can it even continue to be prosperous enough to supply the requirements of its present population without increasing its sources of income?

We think not. This city needs industries. It needs a payroll. It needs a few thousand sober, industrious workingmen, with steady employment at good wages. The addition of even 5,000 such men to its population would increase the volume of business done by local merchants amazingly. It would make the city prosperous all the year round. But how to get them is the question. It would never do to have factories operated by steam, for that would mean coal, and coal means smoke, and smoke would mean the loss of revenue now derived from health and pleasure seekers, and discomfort for everybody. The day that Colorado Springs becomes a smoky city it will lose its charm for the people who live here, either permanently or a part of the time, because of its pure air and sunlight, its distinction even to gain new industries. If we can not have factories without smoke, it is pretty certain that we will have to do without factories.

But there is plenty of water power in the mountains for the generation of electricity, and it would not be impracticable to bring this energy to Colorado Springs for manufacturing purposes. Electric power produces no smoke or dirt, and under conditions which obtain here is as cheap, or cheaper, than steam power.

This is a subject which should commend itself to the earnest consideration of the Chamber of Commerce, the Merchants' Association, and public spirited individuals. Colorado Springs can not afford to stand still, for stagnation is almost as bad as retrogression. The city is not standing still today; we believe it is advancing, but it ought to advance faster. There is no good reason why it should not retain all of the features which have made it ... the most cultivated class of residents, and at the same time attract a few thousand breadwinners. Climate and scenery are assets of inestimable value, but they will not suffice for a thriving city. Colorado Springs needs new industries which will employ workingmen, and plenty of them.

SWEARING OFF.

THE first day of January has come to be regarded as a sort of clearing house for the settlement of debts due to conscience, just as Christmas is regarded by many people as the day for squaring obligations of another kind. Somehow, everybody seems to think it necessary and proper to "swear off" something on New Year's Day. The custom is well-nigh universal. A petty vice, which may be the fixed habit of a lifetime, is solemnly forsworn on the first of January, with full knowledge on the part of the swearer that it will be resumed in a week, or perhaps a month. In the week between Christmas and New Year's desperate efforts are made to smoke all of the holiday cigars, so that none may be left when swearing-off time comes. During the first two or three weeks of January the "water wagon" groans under a terrific load. But these conditions never last long. The man who on January 1 virtuously gives away all of the cigars he has on hand is likely to regret his generosity before the month is ended, and so it is with the other people who have the habit of swearing off.

One reason why few New Year resolutions amount to anything is that so many of them are made. The habit becomes so firmly rooted that one unconsciously resolves to do things which he knows he can't do, and also not to do things which he is equally certain nothing can prevent him doing. If there is any evil in the New Year resolution habit it is found here. The best way is to quit swearing off. Quit the practice, whatever it is, if you are convinced that it is injurious, or extravagant, or evil, but also quit swearing off. To be everlastingly promising yourself that you will not do a thing when you know that you will do it is harmful to the moral sense and deadening to the will power.

The first of January is a good time to take an inventory; to review the past year and see where mistakes have been made as well as where ground has been gained. All human progress is a constant process of taking two steps forward and slipping back one, or profiting by mistakes already made, so there is no reason to feel discouraged if, in looking back over the year just ended, we find that the trials and disappointments make up a large part of its history. In the lives of most of us there is always more to feel thankful for than to regret, and on New Year's Day especially it is easy to strike a balance of the right kind.

Press Opinions

NO LONGER A DISTINCT SPECIES.

From the Indianapolis News.

The country doctor is rapidly becoming extinct as a species. The men one meets at their societies look, dress, talk and act as the men do at any meeting of city physicians. The papers presented are quite up to the city standard, the discussions markedly above those of the city men. The surgical experiences related would astonish some men who think the city clinics and clinicians do all of this work, or at least all that is well done.

SELFISHNESS OF THE SNOB.

From the New York Mail.

The snob cultivates a man or a woman not because he expects to get a job or a loan out of either but because he thinks either can help him along into society's elect. He cuts a former acquaintance because the unfortunate person seems to be of no use in his own social advancement. He suppresses the impulse that may lead him to dislike useful people and like useless ones just as the ambitious bank clerk suppresses his small extravagance, his fondness for the race track. Because social position seems to him so important he admires excessively those who have it and snubs those whose position he deems inferior to his own.

COOL EVENINGS FOR COURTSHIP.

From the Baltimore Sun.

Observations extending over forty years convince us that in Baltimore most courtships are begun about the middle of October, when the evenings grow chilly and sitting in the parlor becomes comfortable. Just before Christmas there are often halts—due principally to a certain reluctance costly to venders of Christmas gifts. But after the holiday season there is commonly a rapprochement, and along toward January 20 there arrives the period of preliminary and tentative osculation. The middle of February sees Clarence advance to the strangle hold and by mid-March Angeline is giggling with her prospective bridesmaids over the details of her trousseau. April and May are spent by Clarence with the money sharks, floating a loan to finance the honeymoon. With the first stroke of June Mendelssohn: "Ain't she pale!"—"Let no man put asunder!"—"Lohengrin"—rice—old shoes—Atlantic City, Niagara Falls!

THE IDIOTIC WEDDING "CUT-UP."

From the Kansas City Star.

Most people have their weak spots. Few are roundly normal. Some slap their friends on the back, some whistle in public places, some keep barking dogs, some speak monologues and think they are "conversing" and so on, but there is some hope for a tendency or a habit that is not deliberately designed to be mischievous, such as the playing of pranks on newly married people. These jocular outbreaks have undergone various "refinements" and they have now reached the point where a honeymoon voyage has been anticipated by a "bill of particulars" printed in circular form and distributed among the passengers of the ocean liner. The discouraging thing is that the propensity does not "refine" itself out of existence. It is, generally speaking, as perverse in its latter day manifestations as it was when the uncouth but equally well-meaning country bumpkins surrounded the house of the bashful bride and groom with the beating of pans and old copper boilers with what was called a "belling."

Open Parliament

A STATEMENT FROM JUDGE ROBINSON.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

In view of what appears to me a harsh and unjust editorial criticism in this morning's Gazette, I ask the publication of the following statement for the public.

When the Republican judicial ticket was nominated last September, I recognized the fact that if that ticket was elected it would be necessary for me to retire from the practice of law in this city. This fact was not only well known to me, but it was known to a large part of the bar and to many of the people of the city. This condition was certainly not willingly brought about by me, but came almost wholly from the way in which I had performed my duty as city attorney.

Under such circumstances I wanted to prevent the election of that ticket. I offered to support any good ticket that would be nominated against it. After I was placed on the opposition ticket I repeatedly offered to withdraw from it and allow someone to be substituted who could obtain certain support that I could not get. You are certainly aware of that fact. When the election was over I recognized my defeat and the unfortunate position in which I was placed by the success of my opponents, and I began quietly seeking for some other means of earning a living. Every attorney and many other citizens will recognize what it meant to me to give up my profession and to take up some new occupation. I did not deem it necessary to criticise anyone, but thought it best to recognize the facts as they existed and to do the best I could under them. I wished to avoid all controversy and especially wished to avoid giving anyone an excuse for abuse.

When your reporter came to me on Saturday night about the Schuyler letter I told him that I wished to say nothing more about the matter. He asked me again about the alleged letter and I told him that I had never heard of such a letter except through the newspapers and that I did not believe such a letter had been written until within a day or two.

He asked about the reasons for delay in the two matters involved, and I told him that I thought the Hydro company might want to delay them until after the new judges took office and probably until after the next city election. The reporter then sat down and for at least a half hour we discussed politics. I explained to him my situation and why I wanted to avoid all controversies. When he arose to leave I again stated that I preferred that nothing should be published from me, and that if anything was published it must first be submitted to you, and then only what I had said about the Schuyler letter and what I thought was the Hydro company's reasons for wanting to delay the trials. I certainly thought it was fully understood that nothing that was said during our discussion of politics was to be published or repeated, and I was very much surprised when the interview appeared.

Under such circumstances do you think your editorial was just?

For some time you have known that I contemplated resigning my office and the reasons therefor. Perhaps you think I exaggerate the difficulties which confront me, but you do not and can not fully understand what it means to an attorney to give up his profession and seek a new means of livelihood. While it is true that a comparatively small part of the city attorney's practice comes in the district court, yet the profitable part of the general practice is in that court.

The only reason that I am not ready to resign at the beginning of the new year is that I have been unable to close up certain matters that I do not feel like passing over to my successor. While it might be said that to reduce a majority of about 4,000 down to about 235 should be a cause of some satisfaction, nevertheless it was a defeat for me and a victory for my opponents, and I must recognize it as such. I must take it as being a declaration by a majority of the people that they prefer to have the office of city attorney filled as my predecessors filled it rather than as I have filled it, and I feel that I should submit without criticism or controversy. All that I ask is that during the remainder of the time that I ... mitted to daily criticism and abuse against which I have no means of defence.

WILLIAM C. ROBINSON.

Colorado Springs, Dec. 31.

NOTE—The only point raised by Mr. Robinson that seems to call for a reply is his assertion that he did not know that he was to be quoted with reference to the incoming judges. This is a surprising contention in view of the fact that the reporter went to his office by appointment for the express purpose of getting an interview; that throughout the interview the reporter took notes, sitting on the opposite side of Judge Robinson's desk and writing down his remarks as they were made, and that no request was made that any part of the interview be withheld from publication, and the reporter had no reason to suppose that Mr. Robinson wanted this done. He asked that it be submitted to the editor for approval, but further than this made no request or comment pertinent to the contention raised in the above letter. On Sunday evening, after the interview had been published, the same reporter talked with Mr. Robinson about the interview, and he expressed no surprise or displeasure that he had been quoted in the manner he now complains of.

We suppose it is obvious to everybody that when a reporter is getting an interview, especially one arranged by appointment, he proceeds on the assumption that the person being interviewed knows he is talking for publication, and unless a request is made that part of it be withheld, all is to be printed.—EDITOR.

GREELEY FARMERS IN TROUBLE.

From the Glenwood Avalanche.

The Greeley farmers are again having trouble in getting $5 a ton for their sugar beets. With the beet sugar industry now outranking the cane sugar industry in point of output, there must surely be sufficient profit in the business to justify paying the farmers what they were in the habit of receiving while the industry was in its infancy.

LOVELAND'S EFFORTS.

From the Loveland Reporter.

Denver is trying to secure a large federal building and is not pleased with the plan the government has adopted. It is reported that they are now lobbying in Washington to secure the kind of building which they think they need. If Denver can secure a half million dollar building, what is the matter with Loveland trying for a $100,000 building? It doesn't cost much to try.

NEED OF PEACEMAKER, SOON.

From the Golden Transcript.

The two newspapers of Arvada don't seem to have been introduced to each other as yet. The Sun has not reported officially to its readers that another has jumped into the local field, and the Discoverer editor has not discovered that he is not on virgin soil, as in his second issue appears the remark that "the support from the public accorded the advent of a newspaper in Arvada was especially gratifying and we believe of the kind that will last."

COLORADO MINES LASTING.

From the Lake City Phonograph.

While the papers are making much ado about strikes in the new Nevada camp it is noticed that over in Cripple Creek this week lessees on the Beacon Hill Ajax claim opened up a body of gold ore which gives returns of $60 to the pound or $120,000 to the ton. This is but one of the recent strikes made in Colorado. New and rich discoveries are being made almost daily in the Cripple Creek district, Leadville and the San Juan, which absolutely eclipse anything found in Nevada, but the boom out there will run its course and in the end Colorado mines will still be, as they always have been, operating conditions considered, the best in the world.

THE WONDERS OF IRRIGATION

How Water Produces Wealth—Story of Its Achievements.

From the Los Angeles Examiner.

THE purpose of this memorandum is to determine approximately the gross general value resulting from the application of water for irrigation purposes on the higher-priced fruit lands of southern California.

The figures given do not represent alone the profit to the fruit grower or even the gross amount received by him, but rather the total amount of money that is put into circulation, resulting from irrigation practices, which money is distributed among the grower, the laborers, the box maker, the picker, the packer, the commission man and the railroad company. For the purpose of this comparison, the gross value received for the fruit in the Chicago or eastern market is taken. The money thus received is, of course, widely distributed throughout the community for its general benefit.

At Corona, or South Riverside, there are approximately 6,000 acres of citrus fruit under cultivation, partly in young trees. This area is supporting on the cultivated and village lands, 3,000 people, or one person to each two acres. It was stated in testimony before the interstate commerce commission that these lands were producing from one to one and one-half cars of fruit per acre annually, and that this fruit was worth on the Chicago market about $1,000 per car. In matured groves in this locality, one miners' inch of water (equal to 1.50 of a cubic foot per second) usually serves from five to eight acres, the water being delivered for a flow of approximately eight months.

Therefore, the result of the application of this inch of water in the neighborhood of Corona would be a gross return of $5,000 annually. These figures were obtained from Mr. Joseph Call, who is not only familiar with the federal cases, but who has also represented the water companies in some large suits controlling the water supply.

At Riverside there are approximately 30,000 acres under irrigation. One-third of this area is in alfalfa. In the remaining 20,000 acres a large proportion is stated to be in young trees. There is supported in this area, including the town of Riverside, which is practically entirely dependent upon irrigated horticulture, a population of 14,000 people, or one person to each 2 1-10 acres.

How Water Made Rich City.

The growth of this community is increasing. In 1880 there were 1,358 persons. In 1890 there were 4,682, in 1900 there were 7,973, and in 1906 there are 12,000 persons, a nine-fold increase in ... years.

The value of one acre of matured orange orchard land is placed at $2,000. The value of one acre of water right without trees and favorably situated is about $1,000. The dry land without prospect of water is considered worth $12 an acre. There are $3,500,000 deposited in the banks of Riverside, or $251 per capita. The total valuation of all taxable property is placed at $35,000,000, or $2,500 per capita.

The average gross returns from the orange lands, based on eastern prices, is $750 per acre, and as one miners' inch of water will supply about five acres in this district, the gross return from the application of this inch of water may be taken as $3,750.

These figures have been furnished by the Riverside chamber of commerce.

At Redlands there are 5,000 acres under irrigation, two-thirds being in matured trees. The population supported in this area is 10,000 people, or one person to each one and seven-tenths acres. The value of land with a water right is placed at $1,000, whereas dry land without water is considered to be worth $25 per acre. The average gross value of the fruit on eastern markets is estimated at $500 per acre, and as one miners' inch supplies about eight acres in this district the result of the application of one inch of water may be taken as $4,000.

The deposits in the banks of Redlands amount to $225 per capita, and the value of the property in the irrigated district is placed at $2,000 per capita.

The above returns were furnished by the Redlands chamber of commerce.

Wilderness Quickly Transformed.

The following information has been received from the Ontario chamber of commerce relative to the earning power of water in that section of San Bernardino county:

The total area under cultivation is about 6,000 acres, of which 5,000 are in citrus fruits. About 75 per cent of these fruit trees are in bearing condition. The population is approximately 6,000, or one person to an acre.

In 1905 there were shipped out 1,765 carloads of citrus fruits. This year, though the crop was somewhat lighter, it produced, all told, about $2,000,000. Based on prices obtained in eastern markets, many of these orchards produced $800 per acre.

Prior to 1882 this Ontario district was an absolute wilderness of sage brush and cactus, worth about $2.50 per acre. Now dry land without prospect of water is worth from $10 to $25 per acre. Orchards with water rights and growing citrus trees are worth from $400 to $1,500 per acre. The producing orchards (6,000 acres) are worth, very conservatively, $6,000,000.

There are on deposit here in the various banks and saving institutions of the community over $800,000. The regular water supply of this district is about one miners' inch, constant flow, to every eight acres.

One miners' inch, therefore produces $6,400 in values annually at Ontario.

Great Dry Areas Still Open.

The dry lands of southern California that are without water rights are generally used for grain farming, and produce uncertain crops, depending on the character of the late spring rainfall. The value of these lands will range from $25 to $50 an acre, depending upon their proximity to the coast.

Southern California, with its intensive cultivation, made possible by irrigation, with its teeming population, its sweeping prosperity, stands in singular and striking contrast with conditions in the Sacramento valley, where the arable land is almost wholly given up to the dry farming of wheat.

The outcome in this great and fertile valley has been (we quote from geological survey water supply paper No. 86, page 12), "a concentrated land holding with a resulting decrease of population, large areas of wheat being farmed with greater economy than small ones. This is brought forcibly to the attention of one traveling over the roads in the great valley district. Numerous small bunches of trees mark the points where once stood a house, the home of a small farmer. Today these families are scattered and the small ranch is only an insignificant fraction of a great farm of perhaps 10,000 to 20,000 acres owned by one person and farmed by a drifting population, employed only during the planting and harvesting seasons and having no interest in the welfare of the county except in obtaining a few weeks' wages, which may or may not be spent in the neighboring towns."

It is estimated by the same authority that in Colusa county on these wheat farms there is but one child to two square miles. The county assessor of Glenn county states that the average farm land holdings in the valley district is 1,595 acres.

All the fruits of southern California can be grown in the Sacramento valley with irrigation, and water is abundant there.

The comparison (or contrast) of these dry-farming conditions with the horticultural development, under irrigation, in southern California is truly startling. It challenges the attention of every thoughtful citizen of Los Angeles. The value of irrigation is seen in the productiveness of the soil, the density of the population, the prosperity of the people.

What New Water Supply Means.

Based upon present plans for the Los Angeles aqueduct, the city will have a surplus of 10,000 inches of water, continuous flow, or 15,000 inches supplied during an eight-month season, after supplying the domestic requirements for the rapidly growing city. It is necessary, without delay, to secure this large supply for distant future domestic needs, as it is a last chance for this district.

Southern California has had but thirty years of modern growth. The same increasing ratio of development would make it well-nigh impossible to condemn additional water by the end of another generation. This point was emphasized by the president.

Let us here recall the ascertained value of one inch of water when used in fruit culture in southern California. At Corona, as we have seen, it is placed at $5,000 annually; that is, the gross receipts from the application of one inch of water in the irrigation of fruit-producing lands—the gross amount of money put into circulation is $5,000 annually. At Riverside it is $3,750; at Redlands, $4,000; at Ontario, $6,400. This is the ascertained and practical result after twenty or twenty-five years of development.

The value of the culture crop of southern California for 1905 on eastern markets was $34,000,000, grown on less than 50,000 acres.

What then will 10,000 inches of water applied to citrus horticulture, do for Los Angeles and its adjacent territory. We must wait, perhaps ten years, while the fruit culture is being developed.

It should then, upon the above basis, secure the earning and distribution in the ordinary channels of trade, of ten thousand times $4,000 or forty million dollars, an amount annually in excess of the probable cost of the entire enterprise. This figure may be halved or quartered and still remain startling.

While I have been discussing the citrus industry, yet other crops, while less "fancy," are more stable and possibly more satisfactory, such as winter vegetables and the growing and canning of berries and small fruits. A diversified industry is more secure and more desirable.

$40,000,000 More Yearly.

By a fortunate coincidence, the amount of water required for irrigation uses in southern California is the same as the amount required for an equal area occupied for municipal purposes. It would, therefore, be possible for the city to permit of the application of these surplus waters not immediately required in the city for domestic uses, to the development for the time, of horticulture in our surrounding tributary districts. The owners of these lands would naturally continue their horticulture operations until it became more advantageous to them to dispose of the land as town property, than to continue the farming use.

Similar indirect results from public improvements furnish the incentives which induce the federal government to build harbors and lighthouses, and state and county governments to build roads, schools and parks, and it is this incentive which induced the federal congress of the United States to pass the reclamation act, loaning its credit to the people of arid America.

Assuming that 50,000 acres can be irrigated profitably with 10,000 inches of water, an annual income should be directly derived by the municipality from the renting of this water for agricultural purposes, sufficient to pay one-half the interest on the bonded debt necessary for the construction of the plant bringing the water to the city.

Vast Power and Revenue.

Even yet the case is not fully stated. A water power of 50,000 horsepower may be established within twenty-five miles of the city, which can be made very valuable. At one-half cent per horsepower hour for a ten-hour day, the revenue from this source alone should be sufficient to pay the interest on the bonded debt.

The boilers of the city of Los Angeles are built for 65,000 horsepower. In addition, there is 10,000 horsepower in gasoline engines, making a total of 75,000 horsepower. Of this, about 15,000 horsepower is used in lighting and for small motors in factories. This is delivered at about 6 cents per horsepower hour. The large blocks of power are sold for greatly reduced figures, and are the subject of special contracts that are in the nature of private information, but it is understood that this power is sold as low as one-half cent per horsepower. The city itself pays $100,000 annually for street lighting.

Can the people of Los Angeles trust themselves with the management of a business enterprise of such magnitude as that which is here under contemplation?

The population of the city is now ... city water works are paying all current expenses of the department and are turning into the city treasury a net profit of $800,000 besides. We have, so far as I know, the cheapest water on the coast. Up to date, these earnings have been put into improvements and extensions. There is no politics in the water department, and the employes are selected by the civil service commission.

It should be made a cardinal principle in disposing of the water which is available for irrigation purposes, that the use of the water must be so applied as to widely distribute the resulting benefits. To me it would not appear to be the best result if this water should be used on large estates continually. The general tendency of intensive cultivation by irrigation is to reduce the size of the fruit farm unit. The average size of irrigated farms in Utah is less than forty acres, and in southern California it probably would not be far from twenty.

A careful study of the principles of the reclamation act relating to the control of the size of the farm unit in its practical operation in arid America might lead to a solution of the problem. What is desired is a large number of small homes, a dense population and a broad distribution of the benefits resulting from the application of this water to horticulture.

A JUDGE ON THE HOG.

From the Baltimore News.

Judge J. Upshur Dennis, of the Supreme bench, who has been ill nearly a year, sat in his room at the Church Home and Infirmary on Monday afternoon and talked of things. His talk was light and pleasant and interesting, for it related to the joys of living and the dishes so agreeable to the palate, including terrapin and duck. "The hog," he said, "is the greatest animal in the world. Every part of him has a different flavor, and each flavor is better than that of any other animal in the world."

"Better than a terrapin?"

"I don't call a terrapin an animal. The terrapin, as I explained, is a creation. But, to return to the hog: all of him is good, from his tail to his front feet. Chine is a great dish, but it don't compare with jowl. Jowl and turnip tops in the spring can be beat by only one thing, and that is a boiled hen turkey. Nobody but a Yankee or a heathen would roast a hen turkey in the spring. Hen turkeys are fat before they lay, and the flavor is delicious. Properly cooked and served, such a dish is fit for kings, and nations have gone to war for less cause."

HOLBROOK & PERKINS

SCHOOLS TO OPEN TOMORROW

Holiday Vacation Ends Today—The Board May Decide to Give Two Weeks in the Future.

Tomorrow the temporarily silent corridors of the Colorado Springs public schools will again resound with the trampling of thousands of feet, for the holiday vacation is over. The seemingly brief ten days of freedom and play will be things of the past, and those who "teach the young idea how to shoot" and the shooters will again settle down to target practice.

Tomorrow means back to the desk and text book for about 5,000 pupils and 140 teachers in Colorado Springs, and they will endeavor to imitate the busy little bee until the Easter vacation, of one week, arrives.

It is probable that the board of education will in the future extend the Christmas vacation to two weeks instead of ten days, as it has been found that where the vacation ends in the middle of a week there is considerable straggling on the part of pupils in getting back to work.

The new term or semester, however, will not begin tomorrow, but on January 21, when the new classes will be reorganized. There will be about 80 pupils enter the High school from the primary grades at that time, and this addition may necessitate the employment of a new teacher at that institution.

One room of the new addition to the Ivywild school will be opened tomorrow and the other room of the new building will probably be opened with the beginning of the new term, on January 21.

Last night the new members of the senior and junior classes of the High school rounded out the vacation pleasures with a dance at the Alamo hotel.

ENTERTAINMENT AND SUPPER

Woman's Club Completes Arrangements for Big Event Saturday Night—Dance a Feature.

The committees making arrangements for the "Twelfth Night" entertainment and supper of the Woman's club of Colorado Springs, to be given at the Grace church parish house next Saturday night, met yesterday morning in the homes of Mrs. Lulu Bernard and Mrs. J. N. Beaty. It was decided to have the supper served promptly at 7 o'clock, instead of at 8 o'clock.

A special feature of the supper will be two large cakes handsomely decorated. The one for the gentlemen will contain a bean and he who finds it will be the "king" of the night. The cake for the ladies will contain a ring and the lady who finds it will be the "queen" of the night and will be wedded to the "king" with appropriate ceremonies. There will also be found in the ladies' cake, certain tokens which will signify that the holders are to be "ladies-in-waiting" to the "queen."

William P. Kinney has consented to give the history of "Twelfth night" and those attending are requested to be prepared to tell their funniest story.

Fink's orchestra has been engaged to play throughout the evening and after supper there will be a grand march, cotillion, with favors, and other dances.

The names of those intending to be present must be handed in during the meeting of the art and literature department of the club tomorrow afternoon, as none can be taken after that time. Also, all willing to come in costume and participate in the grand march and cotillion are requested to notify the committee tomorrow afternoon.

NEW YEARS GREETING

MAYOR H. C. HALL COMMENDS CITY'S REPRESENTATIVES.

Thanks Council, Officials and Employes and All Departments for Faithful Service Rendered.

In the following communication commending the city council, city officials and employes for their zeal and efficiency, Mayor H. C. Hall sends New Year's greetings:

"To all city officials and employes: At the close of the first year of the present administration, I take this method of thanking every one of you for the zeal and efficiency which you have manifested in the discharge of your respective duties. Public service is largely a thankless service, but you have the consciousness of work well done.

"The law-making power has been exercised in the framing of wise ordinances; paving of streets has been extended and many miles of sidewalk constructed for the lasting benefit and embellishment of the city.

"The street department has not only kept our public ways clean and in repair, but has effected substantial and permanent improvements, such as the Costilla undercrossing and the opening of San Miguel street. One hundred and seventeen blocks have been patched, 82 graded, 81 graveled, (5 with disintegrated granite) and 81 rolled. Since August 1, some ten thousand wagonloads of gravel have been used on our streets.

"The concrete work includes 15 reinforced concrete walk boxes, 12,823 square feet of crosswalks, 3,787 square feet of walk, 1,302 lineal feet of curb, and 2,814 feet of gutter.

"The vigilance of the health department has kept our city in the most sanitary condition of any in the United States. The market master's bureau and the laboratory are proving of increased value to public health. Only two deaths from typhoid fever originating here have been reported, and no deaths from contagious diseases except three from whooping cough. Our water has been pure, abundant and free from pathogenic bacteria.

"The policy of prevention pursued by the fire department including inspection of buildings, electric wiring and ash pits, has brought our fire losses down to $356.00 for December, and a total for the year of less than $11,000.00; a record which may challenge comparison with that of any city of this size.

"The police, while few in number, have so well performed their task that the criminal class has practically been eliminated, and arrests have been reduced to one-half of what they were a year ago. For illustration:

Arrests Nov. and Dec. 1905 229
Arrests Nov. and Dec. 1906 114
Arrests for drunkenness,
Nov. and Dec. 1905 93
Arrests for drunkenness,
Nov. and Dec. 1906 47

"Our Christmas holiday season has passed without a single report of disturbance, pocketpicking, shoplifting, hold-up or robbery. It may fairly be said that person and property are nowhere better safeguarded.

"Our cemetery has been transformed; public parks and grounds improved and well cared for; forty miles of sewers have been cleaned; the water system augmented and bettered in many important features.

"Financially the city has been kept on a cash basis; its revenues carefully collected and the tax levy has been reduced by nearly one-seventh.

"Without entering into further detail, let me say that in every branch of the city's activities our people have been getting their money's worth.

"These are results which could not have been obtained without your faithful and intelligent co-operation, and in extending my hearty thanks, let me add my hearty wishes for the happiness of each of you during the coming year.

"In the words of Joseph Jefferson's toast:

"Here's to you and your families; may you all live long and prosper."

HENRY C. HALL, Mayor.

Dec. 31, 1906.

1907 ROYALLY USHERED IN

New Year Welcomed With Noise and Merriment—Many Social Events Tonight.

"The King is dead! Long live the king!"

A new year is born, crowned with the title of 1907—the last monarch of the calendar, 1906, has gone to join the limbo of the past.

Hailed by a big, yellow, full moon, a great clanging of bells, tooting of auto horns, the blowing of steam whistles and a fusilade of pistol shots, the new year was last night greeted by the joyful of Colorado Springs.

The tick of the clock after midnight signaled the moment for toast, cheer and well wishes. There were scores of watch parties at churches and homes and several dances and balls. Among these affairs were the following:

Grand charity ball for the benefit of the Colorado Springs Day nursery at the Antlers hotel.

Dance given by the senior and junior classes of the Colorado Springs High school at the Alamo hotel.

Social session of the Caledonian society in Odd Fellows' hall.

Dance by the German Order of Harugari at Waycott opera house, Colorado City.

Musical evening, Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Sinclair, 1604 North Tenth street.

Watch party of Christian Endeavor society of First Christian church at home of Rev. C. S. Brooks, 115 East Boulder street.

Today there will be a number of social affairs, the principal events being as follows:

Open house, afternoon and evening, at Young Men's Christian association.

TALKS OF LAND DEAL

WHITE MERELY ACTED AS THE AGENT FOR W. B. REED.

Says He Did Not Get Cash Commission and Did Not Know Anything Was Wrong.

Grant White, who is accused by W. R. Hayden of Colorado City, and the latter's attorney, W. M. Swift, of defrauding Hayden out of $2,000 worth of mining stock in a land deal, acted as agent and not as principal in the transaction and had no knowledge whatever of any irregularity in the exchange, according to his statement last night.

White has been a Colorado Springs resident for four years and has engaged in many real estate transfers. It is pointed out by his friends that he is responsible for any transaction consummated by him and much indignation is expressed as a result of the Hayden charges.

Speaking of the matter, White said last night:

"I acted merely as Hayden's agent in the matter. W. B. Reed, with whom I had previously had some dealings, told me that he had 160 acres of land in Barry county, Mo., which he would trade. I told Hayden of the proposition, and the deal was closed. Reed was in Kansas and the transaction was put through by me, acting as Hayden's agent. Hayden exchanged 5,000 shares of stock in the Bonanza Queen Gold and Copper Mining and Milling company for the Missouri land, giving me 500 shares for my commission. I did not receive any cash commission.

"I did not represent to Hayden that I owned any land in Missouri or that I held power of attorney to dispose of the same. I moreover informed Hayden that I knew nothing of the nature of the land and merely gave him the information I had secured from Reed. I do not know whether Reed acted fraudulently in the matter or not, but my proceedings were all in the best of faith, and I had not the slightest thought that anything was wrong.

"Only recently I have purchased several thousand dollars worth of Colorado Springs real estate. I am responsible for any acts of mine and intend to continue my investments in the city."

AGENTS MUST PAY EXPENSES

Representatives of Big Insurance Companies Required to Maintain Their Own Offices.

Under the new insurance law which comes into effect today, a large number of the district offices of the large companies will be closed in accordance with the clause which limits the expenditure of the companies to a certain amount. The offices of the New York Life in this city closed yesterday, and if the resident manager, Alexander McCall, wishes to continue in the service of the company in this city, he will have to rent and furnish offices at his own expense. For some years the company had offices in the Chamber of Commerce building, but these were vacated yesterday, as were also the company's offices at Pueblo, Cripple Creek and a score or more of other towns in Colorado. Mr. McCall explained the reasons for the changes as follows:

"The intention of the new law was to restrict the annual business of the New York Life to $150,000,000, whereas we had formerly been doing $450,000,000 of business yearly. The company is compelled under the law to restrict its expenditures and therefore 61 offices throughout the Union are being closed. That is to say, the company will no longer pay the rent or furnish the office, and if the business is continued it is up to the local manager to furnish and rent his own office and take his own chances on getting business. All the other large companies are similarly affected. It is my intention to secure another office and continue business in this city under the new regulations by paying my own rent and furnishing my own office.

"Another change in the law which seriously affects the people of this city is that in the future none but first-class risks will be taken. It has been our policy to take what we called the substandard risks, that is, on people who may have a taint in their family of hereditary disease or of people who are not perfectly sound physically. We have done a large business with people of that class, but in the future can take nothing but strictly first-class risks."

A Day With Cole's Hot Blast

It is well worth your time to read this carefully. We guarantee the stove in every particular mentioned here and in many other ways. Over 2,000 now in use in Colorado Springs and vicinity.

On a Cold Morning

Simply open the draft—fire will burn almost instantly and quickly heat the house with the fuel put in the night before, fast as coal and much quicker than a furnace. Saves you the inconvenience of kindling a fire.

During the Warm Part of the Day

The stove may be easily regulated to burn very slowly or even held indefinitely with a very small amount of fuel. The peculiar adaptability of Cole's Hot Blast to this climate is now being proved to entire satisfaction in over 2,000 homes of our city. Why don't you investigate?

On a Cold Evening

Repeat the simple regulations of the morning. To simply hold the fire over night add a small amount of fuel and close up drafts. When a good fire is desired turn the night and larger amount of fuel and regulate stove by top draft. The advantages of a furnace without the attendant expenses, dirt or trouble, and at a big saving.

WHEN THE COAL BILLS ARE PRESENTED

Don't you wish that you knew some way to reduce this item of expense? Of course you do. We can tell you, how and will prove our assertions to your entire satisfaction. Will you give us the chance?

DO NOT FORGET

You should bear in mind the fact that you invest in a heater once for many years' service (this is true of Cole's Hot Blast), but you are continually investing in fuel. Cole's Hot Blast saves 1-2 to 1-2 the fuel. Why not invest now? (Old stoves taken in exchange.)

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

We caution you to beware of the cheaper stoves made to imitate ours; don't be misled, there is only one genuine Cole's Hot Blast—insist on having the best.

SCENE FROM "RAFFLES," AT THE OPERA HOUSE TONIGHT.

WHAT THE PRESS AGENTS SAY

NEW YEAR'S ATTRACTION AT THE OPERA HOUSE

Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman," the thrill-creating play which will serve to introduce S. Miller Kent to his friends at the Opera House this evening is not merely a study in criminology. Nor are the four acts after the disappearance of Lady Melrose's diamond necklace taken up entirely with the battle of wits and cunning between the gentleman-burglar and Captain Bedford, the detective. Along with the exciting psychological exposition of a man's responsibility (or lack of it) for wrong-doing, is a love story of unusual romance and tenderness. Although Raffles is a thief he has a heart which he loses to Gwendolyn Conron. Raffles has a struggle with himself on this account, which renders the character dramatic to a point of pathos, and of irresistible fascination for the spectator. A born criminal with an inherited cerebral affliction, reliving excitement that the ordinary life can not give, yet with the longings and hopes born of innate refinement and gentility, he sees in the love of a good woman his best chance of redemption. Gwendolyn loves Raffles even before she is sure that he loves her. It is an intensely powerful scene when their mutual love is confessed and Raffles reveals to the amazed girl his real identity. Owing to the length of the performance it will commence promptly at 8 o'clock.

THE SIGN OF THE CROSS

At the Opera House Friday evening Manager R. G. Church will present Wilson Barrett's world famous religious drama, "The Sign of the Cross," with [illegible] and sumptuous spectacular features and a masterful representation of the heart-stirring narrative of the trials of the early Christians in the vice-riddled reign of Nero in Rome.

This play is unique in having for years captivated theatregoers and those who are usually classed as non-theatregoers—those whom religious convictions or prejudice had formerly kept aloof from the playhouse. The scenes of extravagant luxury of the Roman court are shown in richest colors and the many thrilling incidents of the persecution and martyrdom of the Christians and the final triumph of the beautiful Christian maiden Mercia over her pagan admirer, Marcus Superbus, make this the most impressive play of the age.

A strong company of English and American players will be seen in this most forceful drama.

MURRAY AND MACK COMING

Pretty girls, lively comedy, complete scenic investiture, and musical numbers galore is what those startling comedians, Murray and Mack, promise us in their new piece, "Around the Town," which will appear here next Saturday evening at the Opera house. Of course there is not much that is new that can be said of Murray and Mack themselves, as they have been amongst us so many times that almost every man, woman and child who knows anything about the theater at all is familiar with Mack's little fat man, and Murray's tall, thin impersonation. They come this season well indorsed by the newspaper critics everywhere they have appeared, and unless all signs fail this will be the record-breaker of Murray and Mack, not only in financial returns, but merit of performance. They will introduce many novelties this season; in fact, about the only old thing they will spring will be their famous boxing match, which has laid dormant for a couple of seasons. Many local managers and dramatic critics in the past few years have asked why this extremely funny piece of business has been cut out, so they concluded this year to brush off the moth balls from their boxing gloves and again put back this extremely funny incident. The company this season numbers thirty-five people, all of which are promised adepts in their line of work. The cast includes Miss Gertrude Rutledge, past two seasons prima donna with Henry W. Savage Opera company; Mr. Gus Pixley, past two seasons principal comedian with "Babes in Toyland"; Bobby Herrington, past two seasons playing George M. Cohan's role in "Running for Office"; Mr. Fred J. Guilford, Francis Trumbull, P. J. Kane, May V. Gabriel, Rae Hamilton, the original pony ballet and a large male and female chorus.

MCINTYRE AND HEATH IN "THE HAM TREE."

McIntyre and Heath, the famous black face comedians, who are now starring in Klaw & Erlanger's production of "The Ham Tree," will be the attraction at the Opera house on next Tuesday evening, January 8. This piece is a musical novelty with a very large chorus, gorgeous costumes and scenery and a series of specialties introducing novel spectacular effects. The music, dancing and songs are praised in the highest terms. "The Ham Tree" is one of the plays that affords a meeting of genuine fun.

LARGE STOCK BUSINESS

23,436,580 SHARES SOLD ON EXCHANGE IN 1906.

$23,436,580 Represents Cash Value of Securities Traded in Locally During Year.

During the year just closed 23,436,580 shares of mining stock were sold on the Colorado Springs Mining exchange, representing a total cash value of $23,436,296.19. This was somewhat less than the total business transacted during 1905, but fully up to the average for the last several years.

"The output of gold from the Cripple Creek district," said W. P. Kinney, secretary of the exchange yesterday, "is fully up to the average maintained for the district during the last sixteen years, which is in the neighborhood of $18,000,000, and all things considered the business on the exchange for the year has been most satisfactory. The prospects for the coming year are exceptionally bright, for since the decision in favor of a tunnel has been reached, there is already evidence of an increased activity among outside investors. The uncertainty which overshadowed the project until within the last month had a deterrant effect on investors, many of whom were waiting until the undertaking was an assured fact before investing.

"The decision to go ahead with the work of drainage has strengthened the market very materially, and another factor that gives the utmost confidence as to the future of deep mining is the strikes made in the Isabella and Portland in the last week to two. These discoveries go to show that the fissure veins which are characteristic of the district are as rich at great depth as may have been found near the surface and the probabilities are that there will be undiminished shipments of ore from Cripple Creek for many years to come. Cripple Creek is different from all other camps in the history of American mining in that it has gained a reputation for permanency and has demonstrated that its mineral-producing area is practically unlimited as regards depth at least. Other camps may boom up for a while and attract more or less money, but Cripple Creek has become to be regarded as a substantial business proposition, with a good foundation and a safe future for years to come."

ACACIA TO BE COMPLETED AS SOON AS POSSIBLE.

Force of Men Put to Work Yesterday. J. W. Atkinson Buys a Half Interest.

J. W. Atkinson, the well-known contractor and builder, yesterday purchased a one-half interest in the Acacia hotel property at the corner of Tejon and Platte avenue from R. P. Davis, and work was started at once with a view to completing the hotel by May 15. Messrs. Davis and Atkinson have formed the Acacia Building and Investment company with a capital stock of $100,000, together with a bond issue of $50,000, making a total of $150,000. The owners have already put a large force of men to work and will finish the hostelry as soon as possible. The Acacia hotel when completed will be one of the finest in the city.

About six weeks ago R. P. Davis purchased the Acacia hotel from the Martin estate. For more than two years the uncompleted building located on one of the finest sites in the city has remained idle because of the death of E. L. Martin, the principal stockholder in the Acacia Hotel company.

The original plans of the builders will be greatly changed in the new hotel. No change will be made in the exterior of the building, but a number of new and excellent features will be added to the interior.

Everything about the new hostelry will be of first-class finish and the interior will be exceptionally handsome. The spacious lobby and office will be wainscotted with white marble and the grand staircase will be built of the same material. The flooring of the lobby and office will be of tiling in delicate designs. On the ground floor will be the main dining room with a seating capacity of 200 guests, and two private dining rooms that will seat 50 guests each.

The hotel will contain 80 bedrooms and each room will have hot and cold water. Fifty of the rooms will be provided with tubs with white enamel tubs, nickle-plated plumbing and porcelain lavatories. Each room will also have a telephone connection with the office and the private branch exchange of the hotel through which connections can be made with any telephone in the city or state.

The rooms on the first floor will be finished in antique oak and those on the office floors in white enamel. The sleeping rooms will be handsomely equipped with brass bedsteads and heavily carpeted.

The lounging room and smoking room will be in the basement in connection with the billiard and pool room and bowling alleys.

On the south side of the building on the ground floor will be situated two spacious sun parlors. Another feature will be an inside court containing flowers, vines, palms, plants and small trees. In this court light refreshments will be served at all hours and it is expected to prove especially attractive to theater parties, clubmen and tourists. The cafe of the hotel will be run on the European plan and Mr. Atkinson says that it will be second to none in the city.

A drug store will be leased at the southwest corner of the hotel and adjoining that on the Tejon street side will be five suites of physicians offices of two rooms each.

The hotel will be steam-heated throughout and lighted with both electric lights and gas.

Messrs. Atkinson and Davis are now negotiating with several prominent eastern hotel men with a view of leasing the building as soon as it is completed. It is estimated that it will cost at least $25,000 to furnish the hotel.

The building was built originally at a cost of $85,000, exclusive of the land, which cost $35,000.

Piles Can Be Cured

Twenty-three Years of Agony with Piles Before Using Pyramid Pile Cure. Trial Package Free.

We offer to every piles sufferer a free trial package of the wonderful Pyramid Pile Cure to prove the genuineness of our claim.

If you tried a so-called "cure for piles" and it did not relieve you, can you conceive of anything that would more surely prejudice you against it? We know this and yet we are glad to place our remedy on trial because we know also that we are running no risk of failure to relieve.

Read how grateful this sufferer is to the Pyramid Pile Cure after undergoing every torture with piles:

"This is to certify that I have used three 50c boxes of Pyramid Pile Cure and it has benefited me more than any other pile remedy I have ever used. I had almost lost all hope of ever getting any remedy that would help me until I tried Pyramid Pile Cure. I believe they will entirely cure me if I continue their use, which I intend doing so long as I can get money to pay for them. I do not think anyone ever suffered very much more than I have at times. Then I would be so nervous I could not get any ease in any position I could place myself.

I can but express my gratitude for the good your medicine has done me. I will continue to tell my friends of their merit. Yours, Emma Bedenhamer, Bedford, Ind."

If you are suffering from piles we make no charge for a trial package of the Pyramid Pile Cure. This sample will relieve itching, soothe the inflamed membrane and start you on the way to health. After you have used the sample go to the druggist for a 50 cent box of the remedy, which contains suppositories just like the sample we are sending you. Write today and relieve your suffering. It costs you nothing. Pyramid Drug Co., 75 Pyramid Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

NEWS OF THE LOCAL COURTS

After less than a month of married life, Charles Weinlich yesterday secured a divorce in the county court from Tillie Weinlich. The couple were married in this city December 4, the bride leaving her husband that day to visit a "bachelor friend," according to the plaintiff's testimony. Weinlich said that his wife then returned for Christmas, secured new Christmas presents from him and again went to visit her friend. Cruelty was the technical ground for divorce.

The divorce suit of J. M. Van Duyne against Myrtle I. Van Duyne, together with the cross complaint of the wife, was dismissed by Judge Robert Kerr in the county court yesterday, owing to the mutually incriminating testimony. Van Duyne charged adultery, his wife alleging desertion and nonsupport.

H. D. Gee, colored, was fined $25 and costs for assaulting a woman, by Magistrate A. P. Toombs yesterday. He was committed to the rock pile.

A total of $146.75 was collected in fines in the police court last month, as against $41.50 in November.

In the case of D. V. Donaldson vs. the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad, the plaintiff yesterday filed notice in the district court that he would next term call for the case to be set for hearing.

Affidavits by both plaintiff and defendant were filed in the district court yesterday, in the case of J. E. Hundley vs. E. J. Knight. Knight also filed a petition asking that a judgment, attachm. certain personal property be set aside.

Sheriff J. H. Grant and Treasurer W. H. McNichols, of Pitkin county, were yesterday restrained by Judge J. W. Shorter, of the district court, from selling for delinquent 1900 and 1901 taxes, the concentrating ore mill owned jointly by the Argentum-Juanita Milling company and the Mollie Gibson Consolidated Mining and Milling company. The petition of the two companies was to the effect that the Pitkin county officials are preparing to seize the property, the judge granting a restraining injunction until the matter can be heard in court.

OBJECT OF THIS SALE— This Annual January White Undergarment Sale has become such an unusually important and looked-forward-to periodic event that an explanation of its existence is unnecessary at this time; however, its prime object is to demonstrate how much better and cheaper the garments can be purchased ready made, with time, money and worry saved.

HIBBARDS

WE EARNESTLY REQUEST patrons to make selections and purchases early—while the assortments are fresh and at their best, as there are many attractive buying inducements that will not last throughout this sale because of the demand that will be created from the very start. Passers by will profit by noticing the window display with prices.

Hundreds upon hundreds of new, fresh, white cambric, nainsook and muslin undergarments

January White Undergarment Sale

TOMORROW MORNING AT 8 O'CLOCK we start our Great Annual January Sale of White Undergarments—which will eclipse any previous effort of its kind that has ever taken place in Colorado Springs. We intend to live up to this assertion; and you'll feel that we were warranted in making same after you have seen the garments and offerings here.

The great sale that begins tomorrow is the result of planning of months ago, when cottons were much cheaper than now—ordinarily you would pay from 10% to 20% more than our sale prices; there never were so many reasons to commend this sale; never so many characteristics to individualize it; never so many advantages to extend the most practical economies.

Hibbard white undergarments have always been noted for their extraordinary finish, careful making, fine materials and unskimped cutting—we have no trashy or sweatshop garments to offer, we bar such entirely; every garment offered here bears the "Lily" trademark, which signifies that these garments are made under most sanitary conditions—this means much to you, more than some people realize until comparisons have been made to demonstrate the difference between Hibbard and ordinary undergarments.

The assortments of garments included in this matchless sale are so vast and prodigious that we will not attempt to enumerate and describe the various lots in detail; however we call special attention to the following popular and best selling priced lots—they are worthy of attention, examination and comparison. We feel sure that no other such values exist in Colorado Springs.

ARMORY KNOCKED OUT

BOTH ORDINANCES UNANIMOUSLY VOTED DOWN.

Council Decides to Install Five New Arc Lights. Considerable Routine Business.

By unanimous vote of the six members present, the city council last night voted down both armory ordinances, thus leaving intact the present ordinance, which restricts the construction of an armory within the fire limits. Aldermen Tucker and Verner were absent.

This not precludes all hope on the part of the armory supporters, at least for the present, of building an armory on West Bijou street. R. H. Stevens, the present owner of the site, has several thousand brick on the ground, and had intended to begin construction of the building in the near future. It is said that court proceedings may follow to compel the council to allow the state to locate the armory on the site in question.

Many representatives of the protesting property holders, as well as those of the armory adherents, were present at the council meeting, but the quick work of the aldermen in disposing of both ordinances left no grounds for doubt as to their sentiment.

Alderman Seldomridge called up both ordinances on their passage, afterward moving that each be passed. He afterward voted with all the others on the negative side of his own motions, this procedure being taken to facilitate decisive action in the matter.

On request of G. W. Girling, garbage contractor, the contract was transferred to E. H. Stark. Girling is too ill to attend to the work. Alderman Holden objected to immediate action on the matter, maintaining that the subcontractor who had taken portions of Girling's lease should be consulted and voted in the negative.

City Attorney Robinson reported in favor of the recommendation of Auditor C. M. Perry, to the effect that the directors of the public library be instructed to place in the city treasury the funds of the library, and to file with the auditor a report of their expenses. The recommendation was based on the session laws relating to public libraries. Robinson's report was filed.

Numerous complications arose regarding the payment of the bill of $225 for exchange of a team of fire horses, which had previously been held up. The deal was claimed by several aldermen to be an unprofitable one for the city, but they finally decided to pay it. M. A. Leddy, of Manitou, filed a garnishee of $50 and it the account which is owing J. A. Fitting, and a Denver firm submitted a bill for $250 to the city, claiming that one of the five horses purchased was sold by Fitting as its agent. The two horses are valued at $500, the city being given credit for $275 for the two horses given in exchange. After much discussion, the council voted to allow the bill and have a warrant drawn for the amount, with the understanding that the auditor will not sign it until an arrangement is made regarding the two claims against the warrant.

A second petition, signed by a score of taxpayers in the 300 block on South Cascade street, was read, requesting the council not to allow junk yards to be established in the block. The communication was couched in strong terms, and referred to a junk yard as "on a level with a slaughter house, only more deadly." It was referred to the street committee. L. Feldman was granted a junk peddler's license.

It was decided to install five new arc lights on the following street intersections: Monroe and Nevada, Van Buren and Nevada, Rock Island crossing at Nevada, Santa Fe tracks at Nevada and Bijou and Wahsatch.

A communication from the Wulff-Sullivan Shoe company was read, requesting permission to install an electric sign at its store, 118 South Tejon street. It was referred to the street committee.

Semimonthly bills aggregating $12,456.89, in addition to other minor bills, were allowed and warrants ordered drawn therefor.

The monthly reports of the police magistrate and building inspector, together with the annual report of the city engineer, were referred to the finance committee. The city engineer's report showed that $1,636 has been collected by his office during the year just

To the water committee was referred the case of Thomas Shannon, a former city employe at the Seven Lakes reservoir, who was injured while at work and who is said to be unable to do manual labor. The committee will report to the council at the next meeting, with a view of aiding Shannon. The committee recently appointed to aid Ben Miller, city dump boss, in securing a burial lot in Evergreen cemetery, reported that Miller had been given a lot worth $60 at a great

The city business of the year having been disposed of, Alderman Hosman addressed President Holden to the effect that, owing to the many courtesies which the latter had extended to the aldermen, they had decided that it would be proper for Holden to invite them to supper after adjournment of the council. The council adjourned during the laugh that followed.

The next meeting will be held on the regular night, Monday, January

REMAINS TAKEN EAST—The remains of Thomas Barritt who died last Sunday morning were viewed by his friends at Boyle's undertaking rooms yesterday morning, following which the body was taken to Cleveland, O., by Undertaker Cannon. N. T. Barritt, a brother of the dead man, is a wealthy manufacturer of Cleveland.

BANTA NOW A COMMISSIONER

Oath of Office Taken and Bond Filed Yesterday.

The papers of appointment issued by Governor Jesse F. McDonald authorizing D. A. Banta to fill the unexpired term of county commissioner, made vacant by the death of C. W. Long, was received here yesterday. Banta filed bond in the sum of $10,000, signed by himself, E. W. Giddings and E. J. Eaton. The bond was approved by Judge L. W. Cunningham of the district court, and Deputy County Clerk Mollie Gregory administered the oath of office to Banta.

The new commissioner, by virtue of popular election, succeeds himself for the full term of four years January 8, but the board has considerable business to transact before that time, and desired a full attendance of members.

DRAINAGE TUNNEL MEETING

Bore to Be Driven Will Be Decided at Conference Tomorrow.

The nine directors of the Cripple Creek Drainage and Tunnel company will meet in the office of President S. S. Bernard, at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, to decide whether the deep or the intermediate drainage tunnel shall be constructed in the canon. All the members of the board are now in the city, and Bernard yesterday issued a call for the above date.

WHEAT CLOSES STEADY

BEARISH FEELING PREVAILS EARLY IN DAY.

Corn Market Steady, With Small Volume of Trading—Oats Quiet and Steady.

CHICAGO, Dec. 31.—The early selling of wheat was caused by an increase of more than one million bushels in the actual amount of the world's shipments for last week, compared with the estimated amount. Liberal receipts at Minneapolis also added to the bearish feeling. The principal demand came from shorts. During the last hour the price of the December delivery advanced more than one cent per bushel on a lively demand by shorts and elevator interests. This caused a somewhat firmer feeling in the more distant deliveries. The gain in the December option was later lost on realizing sales, but the market closed steady. May opened 1/8@1/4 to 1/4@3/8 lower at 76 3/4 to 76 5/8, sold between 76 5/8@77, and closed at the highest point.

The corn market was steady all day while the volume of trading was not large there was a fair demand by pit traders and commission houses. Cash houses were the chief sellers. Wet weather and receipts smaller than expected were the causes of the demand. The market closed steady. May opened a shade lower to a shade higher at 43 5/8 to 42 3/4, advanced to 43 3/4 and closed at 43 5/8.

Trading in the oats pit was quiet and prices were steady all day. The weakness of wheat had a depressing effect but this was offset by the small movement. May opened unchanged to a shade higher at 36 to 36 1/8, sold between 35 7/8 and 36 1/4@3/8, and closed at 36@36 1/8.

Provisions were active and weak, there being a tendency among the small holders to sell. There was also considerable changing of January contracts over to May. The market derived some support from local packers. At the close, May pork was off 7 1/2 at $16.37 1/2. Lard was unchanged at $8.80. Ribs were 5c lower at $8.82 1/2.

STOCK MARKET DULL

PINCH IN MONEY MARKET HAS BAD EFFECT.

Atmosphere of Market Not Cheerful One for Approach of New Year—Bonds Are Heavy.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—The last day of the year did not pass without a pinch in the money market, and this was a constraint on the stock market but more influence on sentiment was caused by the persistent rumors of financial embarrassment growing out of stock market losses. Before the day was over it was understood that arrangements had been concluded to avoid the threatened embarrassment. The relief to speculative sentiment was manifest, and the tone of depression in the market largely disappeared. The recoveries which followed were more a matter of price readjustment than a response to any large transactions.

There were some very wild fluctuations in Reading in the opening dealings, successive transactions being made at variations of a point and even 1 1-2 points, a very unusual fluctuation for an active stock in large volume in the market. There was pronounced pressure also on the Hill stocks and to a less extent on St. Paul and Union Pacific. The wide declines in the Hill stocks since the new issues of stock were announced, have involved some severe speculative losses, and the amount of these stocks held on margin proved much larger than was suspected. The severe shrinkage in their market value placed some accounts in a precarious situation. The existence of a vulnerable position was suggested by the unexplained liquidation of the latter part of last week. A long delay in the passing of the stock exchange clearing house sheets today added to the anxiety, and there was continued uneasiness and nervousness in the early trading. The sharp rally in the market came without any official announcement of steps taken, but was accepted as a proclamation of a satisfactory settlement of difficulties.

The gloomy and depressing weather was allowed its share of influence in the mood of the speculation. The atmosphere of the market was not a cheerful one for the approach of the new year. The market had to face some share of selling that simply presented closing out of accounts for the year. St. Paul subscribers to new stock had to make a ten per cent payment today, and this added to the burden of the preparations for the enormous payments of the New Year.

The hope of a prompt relaxation in the money market after the turn of the year is clouded by some of the possible complications. Advices from London indicate the continued solicitude with which that center would regard any withdrawal of gold for New York account after the turn of the year. London is under obligation to return to Paris the resources advanced to the over the annual settlements. A heavy demand for gold for Brazilian account also is to be faced.

In our own money market, it is also recalled that the deposit of $10,000,000 of treasury funds was fixed for return on January 20 for half the amount and for February 1 for the remainder. The $26,000,000 deposited late in September also was with the intimation that demand for its recall would be made when currency began to return from the interior in the spring. Instalments on subscription to New York issues will make heavy demand from time to time on future money markets. The question of working towards ease in the money market therefore remained somewhat obscure. Time money was again easier today and sterling exchange was strong. The more cheerful tone of the later stock market was maintained and the closing tone was strong and at the best prices of the day.

Bonds were heavy. Total sales par value $1,722,000.

United States bonds were unchanged on call.

CAMP HAS BIG FUTURE

VAST ORE BODIES HIDDEN ABOVE TWO-FOOT POINT,

So Say Experts Concerning Cripple Creek District—Two Year's Examination Completed.

Vast ore bodies in sight, and undoubtedly larger bodies are still to be discovered above the 1,000-foot point in the Cripple Creek district, according to the report of engineers of the United States geological survey, who have just completed a two years' examination of the district.

The examination was undertaken by the government at the request of mine owners, the [illegible] Lindgren and Frederick [illegible] the two engineers who had [illegible] the work in charge.

The report, which has just been received in this city, involved a complete revision of the topographical map of the district used in former surveys, as well as the drawing of a line from Cripple Creek to this city. Close investigation [illegible] of the workings of the various mines for the last ten years.

In touching on the water situation, the engineers take the view that the underground water now prevalent is essentially stored water, and may be drained by proper tunnels. The water drained for each foot of fall is likely to diminish with increase of depth, according to the two engineers, although it is probable that at a depth of 1,000 feet the shattered zones in the breccia contain a large amount of water.

No excessive rise of heat is likely to interfere with mining operations at great depth, say the two experts, despite the fact that observations indicate that the heat increases one degree for each 60 feet of depth.

The engineers report that the greatest bodies of ore yet to be opened will be between the surface and the 1,000-foot point.

"In general," they say, "the explorations below the 1,000-foot point have been less satisfactory as regards quantity of ore than explorations above. It is certainly true that some large ore bodies as yet show no sign of depletion in depth and that some good pay shoots have been found at a depth of 1,400 to 1,500 feet.

"It is probable that the ore bodies, known or unknown, occurring below the 1,000-foot zone are neither so large nor so abundant as those nearer the surface. The discovery and exploration of these deeper ore bodies is, moreover, beset with increasing difficulties, chief among which is the problem of dealing with the underground flow. For these reasons it is unlikely that the zone between the 1,000 and 2,000-foot levels will yield as much as the zone between the surface and the 1,000-foot level, but it is probable that some strong fissures may carry payable ore to far greater depth than those yet attained."

In speaking of the production above the 1,000-foot point, the engineers state that there are still vast bodies in sight and that there are undoubtedly large ore bodies yet to be discovered. "These undeveloped ore bodies will be mined in the future," they say, "and will contribute the most important part of the production."

CLEAN-UP AT HOME RUN MILL

General Bell Expects $7,000 Brick as a Result.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Dec. 31.—General Sherman M. Bell, who is operating the Home Run cyanide mill and working the mine by the same name on Squaw mountain, has started to make a clean-up, the result of a ten days' run. It is expected that a gold brick valued at $7,000 will be the result of this clean-up.

This mill is treating out from $3,000 to $4,000 a month according to the grade of the ore, all of which is highly oxidized. The ore has been giving returns ranging from $8 to $12 per ton.

LITTLE MAY YIELDING WELL

Ore Gives Returns Between $50 and $60 to the Ton.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Dec. 31.—The lessees working on the Little May claim of the El Paso Consolidated on Beacon hill are shipping out from three to five tons of ore a month, which is giving returns of from $50 to $60 in gold to the ton. The ore shoot is not of large dimensions, but of a good quality. The ore is found at an approximate depth of 250 feet. Considerable development work has been in progress lately.

TO SINK FIFTY FEET MORE

Wabash Company Will Go to 350-Foot Level in Hope of Better Ore.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Dec. 31.—The Wabash Leasing company, operating on the Four Brothers claim on the east slope of Beacon hill, has resumed sinking from the 300-foot level, where a rich strike was recently made. This concern proposes to sink an additional lift of fifty feet in the hope that the ore will be found in larger quantity with depth.

Vein matter has been exposed a short distance from the shaft on the 330-foot level, which is four feet wide, but it is a narrow streak that carries the high values. Assays from this streak run from $200 to $1,100 a ton. [illegible] are being mined while sinking is in progress, and the initial shipment will be made very shortly after New Year's day. It is believed that the ore will give returns of from two to three ounces when broken two feet wide.

CRIPPLE CREEK OUTPUT

MONTH OF DECEMBER SHOWS GRATIFYING FIGURES.

Gross Value Is $1,482,250, With a Total Tonnage of 42,850 Tons. Ore Not Treated Raises Total.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Dec. 31.—The output for the month of December is most gratifying, although the actual figures show the amount to be $1,482,250, with a gross tonnage of 42,850 tons. While the output is as stated above, in reality it should be $1,616,850. This is explained by the fact that ore has been shipped during the month to the amount of approximately 5,000 tons, of a gross value of $125,000, [illegible] has been bedded down but not treated.

The Isabella cyanide mill treated ore about 20 days of the month, but as yet a cleanup has not been made. The mill will probably have a gold brick for the month's work of $10,000.

In the first figures given no allowance was taken of the Golden Cycle and Isabella plants. The following table gives the individual treatment of the mills and smelters:

	Tons.	Av. Val.	Gr. Val.
Smelters	9,000	$80	$720,000
U. S. R. & R.	20,000	26	520,000
Portland	9,000	23	207,000
Ironclad	1,500	4	6,000
Home Run	800	12	9,600
Anaconda	1,000	12	1,000
Wild Horse	850	9	7,650
Little Giant	500	3	1,500
Total	42,850		$1,482,250

GOOD RECORD FOR 1906

ANNUAL REPORT OF STRATTON'S INDEPENDENCE.

Profit for Year, Deducting London Expenses, $245,000 Dividends to Date, 4,850,869.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Dec. 31.—Copies of the Seventh annual report of Stratton's Independence, Limited, as presented to the stockholders in London, on December 15, were received here today by General Manager Charles M. Becker.

In epitome the report is as follows: The revenue account at the mine shows the sales of ore to have amounted to $1,283,630. The total amount of shipping ore aggregated 32,499 tons. The net value of the product was $952,-505. The royalties paid and the percentage of profit retained by the company was $350,000.

The profit for the year, after providing for the company's London expenses, was $245,000. The total dividends paid by the company to date reach the handsome sum of $4,850,869.

The supplementary report of General Manager Becker is one of the most encouraging statements ever issued from the Cripple Creek district, and shows in round figures that since the leasing system was inaugurated over two years ago that $3,000,000 has been produced from the property.

Touching on the treatment of low grade ore, Mr. Becker says: "I feel safe in saying that when it comes to the milling of low grade ore, the tonnage of same will be found sufficient to keep the large plant milling for many years."

HOW TO CHOOSE A GOOD BOOK.

From the Cleveland Leader.

The other day in a public library in London an attendant noticed a young girl sniffing suspiciously at the books. When he asked the reason of her strange conduct she told him frankly. "I sniff at a book," she said, "to see if it smells of tobacco. If it does, then I know it's a book a man has been reading and that it's a good one." This is a novel literary test, but a wise one in some respects. Horse sense lies behind it and feminine intuition.

AUTHENTIC COLORADO DATA

STATISTICS ON STATE'S RESOURCES BEING COMPILED.

SOON IN HANDS OF PRINTERS

Colorado State Commercial Association Will Distribute State Literature Throughout Country.

DENVER, Dec. 31.—By the first of February it is expected that the first complete set of reliable statistics concerning the manifold resources of Colorado and the remarkable production of wealth of the state for the year 1906 ever issued, will be in the hands of the printers. These statistics will be presented to the public in an attractive pamphlet form and given wide distribution throughout the United States.

For many years, or ever since Colorado began to attract attention as a wonderland, data of this nature has been in constant demand, especially among prospective Colorado homeseekers, healthseekers and investors in nearly every state of the union. While there have been figures in abundance, and all manner of statistics galore, only a small portion of them have been in complete form or could be regarded as entirely reliable. Many of the amateur statisticians underestimated the wealth of certain of the counties in the state, while others exaggerated it to such an extent as to make the statements appear ridiculous on their face. Quite naturally, figures and other information about certain sections of the state did not jibe, with the result that there was great confusion in regard to the exact conditions.

Official Statistics.

The task of collecting official statistics and circulating them where they will do the most good was undertaken by the Colorado State Commercial association, an organization of boosters composed of business men, real estate men and others who have large interests here and are therefore prominent in the movement in behalf of a solid substantial growth for the state.

Aiding the Commercial association are the county clerks of the various counties, the presidents and secretaries of chambers of commerce and boards of trade and other persons in official capacity who are competent to gather the desired information from their respective localities. Already the office files of John T. Burns, the secretary of the association, are fairly loaded down with facts in reference to last year's unprecedented production of sugar, fruit, cereals, precious metals, live stock and other things that have added to the wealth of the nation.

From a large number of the counties almost complete official statistics have been secured.

Nature of Information.

Extra efforts are now being made to hasten along the delayed matter and it is believed that before another month rolls around the association will have in hand reliable data about the resources of all the fifty-nine counties. Early in December the association appointed statisticians in every county and in most of the large towns and cities. To them was mailed an official statistical blank with instructions to fill out and return to association headquarters in Denver. The county blanks included space for population and for increase or decrease in population, reasons for same, and whether the increase was largely American or foreign born population; statistics in reference to banks, total deposits in the banks, reasons for increase in bank deposits, etc.; land values, mortgages, etc.; whether increase in values was in irrigated or not irrigated districts, with a space for an opinion of the statistician regarding land values one year hence; new irrigation projects completed and under way, new irrigated acreage; cost of new development work; effect of new irrigation enterprises on land values, total miles of main irrigation ditches.

There is also in the blank a space for statements in references to mortgages existing on agricultural land, percentage of farms mortgaged, etc.

Then follow spaces for detailed statistics on homesteading, manufacturing, the sugar beet industry, farming without irrigation known as dry farming, general agriculture, horticulture, live stock and dairy products.

Separate blanks for mining were sent out, and it is hoped to have complete figures on the production for 1906 within a few weeks.

The association has also collected statistics upon railway construction, bank clearings, postoffice receipts, coal production and many other bits of valuable information. The educational statistics already gathered will be of great value.

Can Answer All Questions.

After the figures and data are compiled, the association will be in a position to answer intelligently every inquiry that comes from outside the state in reference to general and local conditions, no matter how much or what kind of information is asked for.

Another department at association headquarters that has been doing a wonderful work during the year is the official bulletin department. Every three weeks there is issued by Secretary Burns a printed bulletin giving the names and addresses of every correspondent who writes the association for information about the state. As a general rule these individuals are either prospective homeseekers, investors or persons who may come here for climatic advantages, and wealthy tourists. The bulletins are distributed to every member of the association and those who have opportunities to effect may thus correspond with these people. At the headquarters of the association what is known as a follow-up system has been adopted in reference to each name on the bulletin. The writers of the letters are, through this system, supplied with all of the latest literature about Colorado or the particular subject in which they are interested, and also are written to in person calling to their attention the attractions of this state.

Association Doing Good Work.

It is estimated that two-thirds of the new population during the past year came here as the result of the methods of the association and its various systems of advertising the state to advantage. Tons of literature, embracing every state in the union and many foreign countries, have been distributed by the association.

By co-operating with the general passenger agents of the various railroads, hotel men and other organizations, the association has greatly increased the tourist business in the state. Thousands of prospective settlers and investors have been placed directly in touch with the investment men of Colorado. There are now 250 kinds of booklets displayed for distribution at headquarters.

Another feature of the work of the association during the year was the displays of Colorado prize fruit and cereals under the charge of Professor W. G. Brandenburg arranged for different state fairs through the middle western states. The exhibits were located at state fairs and agricultural and fruit expositions of Des Moines, Lincoln, Sioux City, LaCrosse, and Springfield. The contributions to the exhibit included Commercial associations, Business Mens associations and boards of trade in various sections of the state. The manifold results of these exhibitions have been apparent in the number of homeseekers that have come to Colorado from these sections. The association has also maintained a press bureau which has kept local and foreign papers supplied with facts about Colorado.

The association has great plans on foot for advertising the state on an elaborate scale during the coming year.

HOW A TEXAN KILLED A BEAR

Shut Off Its Wind With a Lasso, Then Used His Knife.

From the Kansas City Star.

Jim Gordon, a range rider for W. W. Wilkins, whose big ranch is over near Howard Wells, in western Texas, was much surprised the other morning to see a large black bear lumbering along ahead of him. It was in a rough locality, and the bear was evidently out to get its morning meal of sotol roots.

Gordon stuck his rails into his horse and took after the beast. The chase did not last long. Gordon unloosened his rope, which was coiled over the pommel of his saddle, and when he got within throwing distance of the fleeing bear he deftly circled the noose over the animal's head. The cow pony sat back upon its haunches and drew the rope taut. The bear got one of its paws underneath the noose and prevented the rope from choking it. Then began a struggle that lasted for more than an hour.

Ordinarily a horse is desperately afraid of a bear, but the cow pony which Gordon was riding stood the ordeal fearlessly. It maintained its position while Gordon dismounted with a view of attacking the bear at close quarters with his knife. He had no other weapon. The bear put up a hard fight the moment it saw Gordon on the ground. It rushed at him and struck him a terrific blow on the shoulder which sent him sprawling several feet away and out of reach of the maddened animal, which was confined to a prescribed circle by the rope.

Strange to say, the bear made no attack upon the horse. It seemed to consider Gordon responsible for the whole trouble. Gordon determined to kill the animal before he left the spot. He made several ineffectual efforts to dash in on the bear and give it a blow with his knife, but each time he was struck by the animal's paw. Finally he got hold of the rope and by a sudden pull managed to tighten the noose so that the bear's wind was temporarily shut off.

Taking advantage of the moment, Gordon rushed in and cut the jugular vein of the animal with his knife. He loaded the bear upon his horse and brought it to the ranch house.

A HEADACHE CURE.

From Harper's Bazar.

"It is so strange, doctor," complained a woman patient, recently, "that when I have had a perfectly good night's sleep I should so often wake up with headache."

"How many pillows do you have under your head?" asked the physician.

"One thin pillow," was the answer.

"Try two fairly thick ones," the doctor advised, adding that many congestive headaches were caused by people sleeping with their heads too low. The blood settles in the head and the sufferer wakes with a dull feeling or throbbing pain. Persons subject to catarrhal headache should be careful to have their heads high enough at night.

In cases of headache or facial neuralgia where mustard would be perhaps too severe, a mixture of white of egg and red pepper may be safely used. It will be found quite as effective as the mustard, but it will not blister nor leave unsightly red blotches even on a tender skin. It can safely be applied at the base of the brain for that "headache in the back of the neck" which begins to be complained of at about the time when the storm and stress of the holidays have exhausted the nervous energy.

THE FOX TERRIER.

From the Home Magazine.

The fox terrier is the most intelligent of all the smaller breeds, and there is hardly a trick that he cannot learn in a very few lessons. He is usually healthy, makes the best kind of a watchdog, and his ability to catch and kill rats and other vermin is a household story.

In symmetry, size and character, the dog must present a generally gay, lively and active appearance. The terrier, like the fox hound, must on no account be "leggy," nor must he be too short in the leg. He should stand like a cleverly made hunter, covering a lot of ground, yet with a short back, as before stated. He will then attain the highest degree of propelling power, together with the greatest length of stride that is compatible with the length of his body. Weight is not a certain criterion of a terrier's fitness for his work—general shape, size and contour are the main points; and if a dog can gallop and stay and follow his fox up a drain, it matters little what his weight is to a pound or so. Though, roughly speaking, it may be said that he should not scale over 20 pounds.

One lot of women's skirts in novelty mixtures, worth regularly $6.50; clean-up sale, each $3.75

Fine dress trimmings ¼, ⅓ and ½ off

On a table in the dress goods aisle there's a lot of fancy dress trimmings, including Persian bands, appliques, Venice laces in cream, ecru and white, and various odd lots marked at 1-4, 1-3 and 1-2 price. Look the lot over; it will pay you.

DELICACY DISHES

It's really remarkable how popular our Delicatessen Counter has become in such a short time—so many people say they wish we had started it long ago.

Just a few of the things you can get here: Roast Beef, Veal, Mutton, Pork, Chicken and Turkey; Boiled Ham, Tongue, Corned Beef, Pickled Tripe and Pig's Feet; Potato and Chicken Salad. Life is too short for you to worry with cooking while you can get these ready to serve.

Store Will Be Closed All Day New Year's.
